Nixon's tape stand angers House panel

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's refusal to comply with a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 11 Watergate tapes is providing new grounds for impeachment in the view of some members.

"It means the cover-up continues," said Rep. George Danielson, D-Calif., after Nixon notified the committee Wednesday he would not comply with the subpoena or any other it issues for Watergate material.

"It's hurting him with the committee," said Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., one of a number of Republicans who expressed disappointment at Nixon's action.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., calling Nixon's refusal "a very grave matter," scheduled a committee meeting for next week to deal with it.

There was some talk of citing Nixon for contempt of Congress and of seeking court enforcement of the subpoena, but a majority appeared to favor taking the President's action into account when considering whether he should be impeached.

The committee staff has advised that it is proper to infer that anyone possessing and refusing to provide subpoenaed evidence is withholding material that could be incriminating.

In a letter to Rodino saying he would not produce the tapes, Nixon said the committee's request, and others it is getting ready to make, amount to "a massive invasion into the confidentiality of presidential conversations."

"More fundamentally, continuing ad infinitum the process of yielding up additional conversations in response to an endless series of demands would fatally weaken this office, not only in this administration but for future presidencies as well," Nixon added.

Rodino rejected Nixon's argument, saying the committee's requests were narrowly drawn and related specifically to the impeachment inquiry:

"There is no way the presidency will be weakened by the constitutional process we are conducting. The republic will be strengthened."

Rodino said the committee will issue more subpoenas if it decides the White House is withholding evidence it needs. The next one likely will deal with the dairy funds and ITT controversies.

The committee has requested tapes of 66 conversations in these two areas and Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, told it Wednesday it would get only one partial transcript.

The committee delved deeper into the crucial March 21, 1973, stage of the Watergate cover-up Wednesday, adding secret grand jury evidence to its tapes of Nixon's conversations dealing with hush money payments.

In a report accompanying indictments returned against seven former White House and Nixon re-election campaign aides March 1, the Watergate grand jury said a $75,000 payment was made to the lawyer for convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt Jr. the night of March 21.

In a taped conversation earlier that day, Nixon appeared to be ordering his former counsel, John W. Dean III, to make the payment.

There is some dispute as to whether the $75,000 actually was paid that night, but several committee members said the evidence presented Wednesday made it clear that it was.

The committee also heard a tape of a March 22 conversation in which Nixon, Dean, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman discussed various means of

Nixon-Jaworski feud continues

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon always has had trouble getting along with Watergate special prosecutors.

He didn't want one hired in the first place, yielding reluctantly after the scandals forced a staff and Cabinet shakeup.

Now the White House is feuding with Leon Jaworski over who is boss.

During the House impeachment inquiry the President cannot afford any renewal of the crisis that came when Cox went.

Nixon's spokesmen and lawyer say there has been no consideration of firing Jaworski, although circumstances now are similar to those that led the President to get rid of Cox.

The central issue now, as then, is simple: Can the special prosecutor take the President to court when the President tells him not to?

In each case, the controversy flared over the demands of the prosecutor for access to White House tape recordings the President said he would not yield.

Cox was fired after vowing to press in court for recordings of nine presidential conversations, in defiance of Nixon's instructions to drop the case and settle instead for summaries for the tapes.

But three days later, on Oct. 23, 1973, facing a wave of impeachment demands and an adverse public reaction, the President yielded and agreed to turn over the tapes.

Within a week, arrangements had been made for a new special prosecutor.

Now, up against another tapes controversy with Jaworski, Nixon's lawyers say he is prepared to contest to the Supreme Court a subpoena for recordings of 64 conversations. Jaworski already has won in U.S. District Court.

Jaworski complained there, and to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which backed him, about the contention of the White House that he could not properly pursue the subpoena case in court because it involves a dispute between two officials of the executive branch.

Jaworski said that interpretation of his standing would make a farce out of the special prosecutor's office.

Funeral services slated Friday for R-H editor

A 43-year career as a newspaperman came to an end suddenly for Robert S. Rochester, editor of the Record-Herald for 18 years, at 1:34 p.m. Wednesday in the emergency room of Fayette Memorial Hospital of a severe heart attack; "thirty" will be written on the story of his life at 1 p.m. Friday in the Roberts Funeral Home in his native Logan by the Rev. Robert Hadley, followed by burial in the family plot in Oak Grove Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday. He was 65.

Bob Rochester started what turned out to be a newspaper career as a reporter as a high school boy for the Logan High School football, basketball and baseball teams.

WITH THAT interest in young people, he decided to become a teacher after his graduation in 1926 from Logan High School. He entered Ohio State University, where he played clarinet in the marching band before it became an all brass organization. He then completed his education at Ohio University in nearby Athens where he received his degree in English.

He was on the verge of becoming a professional musician while at Ohio State University when he first joined a small dance band which was playing at Valley Dale to help pay for his college education. He later played clarinet and saxophone with several big name bands of that day, including the Sammy Kaye Band.

But the printer's ink that got in his blood during his high school days was too strong and in 1931 returned to his hometown as editor of the Logan Daily News. Thirteen years later, in 1944, he went to St. Petersburg, Fla., where he advanced to managing editor of the Evening Independent before he resigned to return to Ohio in 1946 to join the staff of the Lima News and became its managing editor in 1954. When the Lima News was sold by the Galvin interests, he came to The Record-Herald, another of the Galvin newspapers as the editor in 1956.

A man of many interests and many

A dedicated friend

A dedication to excellence and a commitment to his fellow man are among the finest attributes a man can seek.

Robert S. Rochester had these in full measure, with a lifetime dedicated to his chosen profession of journalism, and to the betterment of his community and those who live in it.

Bob's wise guidance and ready wit were hallmarks that left a deep imprint on his colleagues, both on The Record-Herald staff and at those newspapers where he toiled for much of his life.

Accuracy and fairness were more than mere words to Bob, they were a credo and a solemn commitment not to be taken lightly. His reputation and that of his newspaper hinged on those two words.

A man of charm and ready humor, he brightened the day for those around him with his pointed and apt observations.

Bob was proud of Washington C. H., and of the newspaper's role as reporter of those daily events which are the lifeblood of his city.

His sudden passing Wednesday leaves a void which will be hard to fill, both in the community and in the lives of those who knew him.

The Washington C. H. community has lost not only a good newspaperman, but a dear friend.

Council pays tribute to Robert Rochester

City Council members Wednesday night paid tribute to the late Robert S. Rochester, editor of The Record-Herald, who died suddenly earlier in the day at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Rochester was termed as "an outstanding community leader who never feared to take a stand for what he believed in" by City Council chairman John E. Rhoads.

The invocation, delivered by the Rev. Gerald Wheat before the opening of the meeting, was dedicated in memory to Mr. Rochester.

Judge demands Plumbers data

WASHINGTON (AP) — New subpoenas for Watergate evidence have been fired at the White House, this time by two former members of President Nixon's inner circle.

The subpoenas were signed by U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell at the request of lawyers for John D. Ehrlichman, formerly Nixon's chief domestic adviser, and Charles W. Colson, ex-presidential counselor.

Gesell gave the White House until 2 p.m. Friday to respond and said he would grant no more time.

He added that the case might have to be dismissed if the government refuses to turn over evidence deemed necessary for the trial.

"If the court rules that material is relevant to the defense of anyone charged" in the case and are not produced, "the prosecution ends," Gesell said.

The subpoenas include a demand for top secret documents connected with the 1971 Pentagon papers case. They also ask for personal papers left at the White House by Colson and Ehrlichman.

The latest subpoenas were issued in connection with the plumbers case, scheduled for trial in Gesell's court Sept. 9.

Ehrlichman, Colson and three other defendants are charged in the break-in at the California offices of Dr. Lewis Fielding, psychiatrist of Daniel Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon papers on U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Among the subpoenaed papers was a damage assessment submitted under seal to the Supreme Court in the Pentagon papers case. Top secret portions of these files have never been publicly disclosed.

Earlier Wednesday, Gesell had said he would not allow the government to withhold material from the trial on a claim of executive privilege.

The White House has retained some of the papers of staffers who left during the Watergate controversy and referred to them as presidential papers.

Ehrlichman and Colson had complained that preparation of their defense was hindered by the fact that access to their papers still at the White House was limited.

"I don't recognize any executive privilege," Gesell said in a hearing on pretrial motions in the case. If anything is relevant and material, it is going to be produced by the United States.

"There is not going to be executive privilege or national security," the judge said. "We must proceed with what is relevant in this case. I am not going to start having a secret trial of public matters."

Nixon has under appeal an order that he turn over tapes subpoenaed by the Watergate special prosecutor's office for the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to start in another court here Sept. 9.

The subpoena signed at Ehrlichman's request Wednesday asks for his personal papers from January 1971 through April 30, 1973, the date he resigned from the White House staff in the heat of rising Watergate scandals.

A separate subpoena requested by Colson asks for his handwritten notes covering conversations he had with Nixon June 14, 1971, and Sept. 15, 1971. The Fielding break-in occurred Sept. 4, 1971.

Big utilities face severe money pinch

NEW YORK (AP) — Faced with rapidly increased costs for fuel and a continuing need for money to expand, some of the nation's major electric utilities have run into a serious lack of funds.

The weak financial position some face was dramatized recently when Consolidated Edison, New York City's power supplier, omitted its regular 45-cent quarterly dividend. Con Ed said it needed cash for escalating operating expenses and heavy capital spending this year, and so did not pay the normally guaranteed dividend which is the major attraction for buying utility stocks.

The incident, and fears of others like it, quickly focused attention on the industry's ailing finances. Stock prices and credit ratings plunged.

Unless the securities market for utility issues quickly improves, the worst trouble may lie ahead, analysts say. And ultimately the consumer may have to pay even higher electric bills, or face potential brownouts.

The Dow-Jones average of 15 of the nation's largest publicly-held power companies has declined nearly 30 per cent since January, to its lowest point in 15 years.

Energy problems and inflation triggered the utilities' crisis.

Ohio Senate eyes end to sovereign immunity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators turn their attention today to a bill that would make Ohio subject to lawsuits, taking away a time worn immunity that dates back to the crowned heads of old Europe.

Up for a vote is a House-passed proposal that would do away with the slow and unwieldy Sundry Claims Board and establish a State Court of Claims to hear suits against the state which presently cannot be sued.

Advocates of the legislation, of which Rep. Robert A. Nader, D-55 Warren, is the chief sponsor, say it will bring justice faster to those injured through the state's negligence.

Under the present system, such victims must file claims with the layman-oriented claims boards which makes recommendations to the legislature for final approval. The envisioned new court of judges would operate outside legislative scrutiny, as other existing courts do.

"This bill would end the notion that the king can do no wrong, and therefore can't be sued," said Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, a co-sponsor.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, says he sees "little chance" that the House will reconsider it's Wednesday decision to kill an omnibus bill that would have created more than three dozen new judgeships throughout the state.

Riffe was instrumental in getting approval of a floor amendment that saved about 500 mayors' courts in Ohio. They would have been abolished by the bill as it went to its hostile reception on the floor.

But after deletion of that controversial proposal—by a vote of 57-35—the House rejected the entire package. The vote on the bill itself was 52-38 with 66—or a two-thirds majority—required for legislation that creates new courts.

The long-debated bill would have established new municipal courts in Wadsworth and New Philadelphia and added from 38 to 43 new judges elsewhere, at various stages of committee and floor deliberations.

Riffe said, and Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg added his agreement, that most of the members simply didn't like the idea of linking new judgeships with the mayors' courts proposal which has been killed at every session for the past 10 years.

Riffe was one of the most outspoken opponents of those seeking to abolish mayors courts, maintaining that in his own county of Scioto and elsewhere, the existing municipal courts would be unable to handle the mayors' caseloads.

Rep. Richard Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, said mayors' courts last year in Hamilton County handled 105,000 cases that otherwise would have gone to the municipal courts.

Finan offered a compromise amendment that would have retained mayors' courts but permitted municipal judges to assign referees to hear their cases. On a motion by Riffe, his amendment was tabled by a vote of 62-28.

In other developments, Robert Tenenbaum, Gov. John J. Gilligan's press secretary, said the governor is expected to sign into law a bill that restores Ohio's regulation and control of abortions.

The House concurred 65-31 Wednesday in Senate amendments to the bill allowing abortions but spelling out responsibilities of physicians, to whom the operations would be restricted. Some lawmakers predicted at least part of it will fail to meet constitutional tests, namely one provision that outlaws the use of public funds to pay for an abortion.

Ohio's old law prohibiting abortions, except in cases where the life of the mother was threatened, was struck down by a decision of the U.S. Supreme Court 17 months ago. Ohio has had no law since, and sponsors of the new law talents, he was a shirtsleeve-type of newspaper man, dedicated and devoted to his profession. A perfectionist, his credo in reporting and editing was truth and accuracy, even to the last detail. Although he never put his studies in English to use as a teacher, he was a stickler for grammar and sentence and paragraph construction, comas and periods. It hurt him to print a story that might hurt someone, but he refused to let his personal feelings deter him from what he thought to be essential recording events of the day, fully and accurately. He had very definite opinons and convictions, but maintained they had no place in news reporting; these were for editorals.

Although the newspaper was his life, he had other interests to which he devoted much time and research. A student of the Civil War (and he was considered somewhat of an authority on the subject), he had accumulated an extensive library on the Civil War; he and his wife, Ruby Nelle, made many trips to the battlefields, not just as mere tourists for a superficial look, but to study them intimately.

He also was a stamp collector as a sideline hobby, and a railroad buff, both of which gradually added to his accumulation of books. As the books — of all subjects — piled up, this developed into almost a business in buying and selling books.

He often said he was looking forward to becoming a "book dealer" after his retirement, after his 66th birthday on May 30 of this year. He said he did not expect this to be a "big money-making business' but rather a hobby which he enjoyed.

He was a long-time member of Sigma Delta Chi, a national society of journalists, both student and professional. He was a member of the Elks Lodge and Rotary Club in Lima, but gave them up soon after coming to Washington C.H. because he felt he did not have the time to take an active part in their affairs. However, he did retain his membership in the Presbyterian Church, which he transferred to the First Presbyterian Church when he came here.

HE IS survived by his wfie, Ruby Nelle Dollison Rochester, 634 Albin Ave., and several cousins. He was the son of John and Jennie Rochester, of Logan.

Anticipating retirement, Mr. Rochester had been grooming Mike Flynn to take over his desk. He came to The Record-Herald as the sports editor soon after his graduation from McClain High School in Greenfield and about a year ago advanced to city editor.

Brown ends election probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Accusations of unethical campaign tactics in John Glenn's primary campaign victory over U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, are soon to be in the hands of Ohio's attorney general.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Wednesday he will forward transcripts of two hearings in the case to the attorney general, along with recommendations on points that need further investigation. A spokesman for the attorney general's office said it will be several weeks before a decision is made about possible filing of charges.

Wednesday's five-hour hearing again saw conflicting stories regarding the origin of bumper stickers reading "Metzenbaum-Nixon, Tax Consultants" and a letter linking Metzenbaum to Red front groups.

Testimony also revealed infighting among Glenn's volunteers in Mahoning County and his salaried state staff.

Charges of unethical campaign tactics were raised when Hanni, Glenn's Youngstown coordinator, resigned April 20.

Eight witnesses Wednesday supported Vigorito's earlier testimony that he had not visited Youngstown at all April 12.

One was Douglass Riggs of Waverly who said he'd attended a party that evening with Vigorito in Columbus.

Two other Mahoning County workers later testified, however, that they had seen Vigorito deliver the bumper stickers. Neither could supply an exact date.

Vigorito has denied any knowledge of the materials.

The day's last witness, Frank Gaetano, a Youngstown University student who worked for Glenn, testified that Vigorito had confessed to him, in a telephone call, that he had brought "about 25" of the questionable bumper stickers to Youngstown.

Gaetano said he called Vigorito after the incident appeared in newspapers following the resignations of Hanni and another worker, George Skaljac, from the Glenn campaign.

"I thought they ought to be aware of all the facts in order to formulate a strategy in case Gary were found guilty, they'd want to play down the political impact," Gaetano said.

James Farmakis, another Youngstown volunteer, testified he saw Vigorito deliver a box of the bumper stickers to the headquarters in the trunk of his car.

An extended forecast gives the probability of generally fair weather in Ohio for Saturday and Sunday, but meanwhile a high pressure area in the west will be moving in to bring partly cloudy skies to the state.

Temperatures for the coming holiday weekend are expected to be a little below normal. Afternoon readings Friday and Saturday are forecast in the 60s or low 70s.

For tonight, temperatures will be a little lower than Wednesday night, with readings in the 40s and low 50s.

Rain tapered off in the state from the northwest Wednesday night following a cold front that moved eastward into the northwestern section of the state. The front is forecast to move beyond Ohio late today.

The heaviest amount of rain in Ohio Wednesday and Wednesday night were in the eastern sections. Columbus, Cleveland and Akron had around a half inch of rain. Mansfield and Youngstown reported over three-quarters of an inch.

claim "abortion mills" are operating at will throughout the state.

In other action, the House defeated a motion to reconsider a previously-beaten bill that would have outlawed "Saturday night special" handguns, apparently putting it to rest for the current session.

Sponsoring Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, was able to muster only a 39-50 vote to reconsider the bill which went down in the House April 3 by a 45-51 tally. Noting he had "lost votes", Galbraith commented "that's it for this session."

The bill would have prohibited sale or manufacture of cheap weapons that have less than three-inch barrels, melt at 800 degrees Fahrenheit, and generally are priced in the $20 to $25 range.

Also defeated by the House during its prolonged floor session was a proposal designed to streamline Ohio corporation laws. It assertedly would make the state competitive with states such as Delaware in attracting corporate charters and related business activity.

The House rejected it 43-49 after claims it represented an effort to "entrench" existing corporate management while taking away the already limited rights of shareholders.

dealing with the upcoming Senate Watergate hearings.

The Boston Globe reported today it had learned from a source who had heard the White House tape that during the March 22 conversation, Nixon said: "Even up to this point, the whole theory has been containment, as you know, John."

Nixon has said he did not learn of any Watergate coverup until March 21, 1973.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., said she found the tape "very significant," but did not go into detail. Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., said "the whole tone of the conversation showed they were determined not to let it (the cover-up of White House involvement in Watergate) get out."

resurfacing program received a crushing blow when it was learned recently that the Ohio Department of Transportation has apparently considered withdrawing its proposal for resurfacing Fayette Street and Clinton Avenue, plus a number of other city thoroughfares under the recently-completed U.S. 35 bypass project . . .

Councilman Ralph Cook mentioned that the new Dayton Avenue railroad crossing which was installed Wednesday by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., work crews needs to be lowered. . . He also said a new lagoon is being constructed behind the plant . . .

Parking meter conversion in downtown Washington C.H. has been completed, according to Wolford and workmen are now in the process of applying decals to the meters to assist motorists in locating specific hour meters . . .

Stock list proves weak

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was generally weak today, despite some scattered bargain hunting in bluechip issues.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .86 at 803.43, reflecting gains in some of the big-name stocks. But declines outnumbered advances by about 7 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Technical analysts said many investors were waiting to see whether the momentum from the market's recent declines would carry the Dow below the psychologically important 800 level.

The NYSE's noon composite index of some 1,500 common stocks stood at 45.82, down .09.

Thai premier to come back

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's National Assembly nominated Sanya Thammasak today as the country's new premier, urging him to return to the post from which he resigned two days ago.

Under the Thai constitution, a decision on a new premier will be made by King Bhumipol Adulyadej, but it was thought likely that the king, a long-time associate and personal friend of Sanya, would follow the assembly's recommendation and urge Sanya to form a new government.

Assembly Speaker M.R. Kukrit Pramoj, who had been mentioned as a candidate for the premiership, told newsmen that Sanya was the only seriously debated candidate in a two-hour closed assembly session.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Tootlers' Union Strikes Webs," says the headline in Variety, the show biz bible. Translated, it means the American Federation of Musicians is in a contract dispute with CBS, NBC and ABC.

The tootlers, says an AFM spokesman, have been "withholding their services" from the three networks and some production companies since April 30, when the union's two-year pacts with the firms expired.

As millions of "Tonight" show viewers know, it's the reason Johnny Carson hasn't been kidding the boys in the band of late.

They aren't there, but neither are they and their colleagues out picketing in the first AFM strike against the networks since 1968. No strike lines have been set up.

The reason, says the AFM spokesman, is that "we're only withholding services for people who do not sign the new contract.

"Now, if an independent producer signs the contract and does his show at a network facility—it happens all the time— we're not going to put up a picket line to keep that guy out of there.

"We want him to use our people under our contracts. We can't put up a picket line only to take it down when he goes in, then put it back up when he leaves. That's ridiculous."

An end to the 24-day-old dispute with the networks isn't in sight, he says. He said joint talks with them broke off shortly before the strike began, none have been held since and none are scheduled.

Spokesmen for the networks declined to comment on what AFM says are the key issues in the dispute — a ban on so-called "runaway" overseas recording for certain network shows and "equal pay" provisions.

Regarding the first, the AFM spokesman said the union wants all original scores for domestic shows the networks own or control recorded in either the United States or Canada by the union's members.

However, he said he had no figures on hand to show how much of that recording now is done overseas and whether it has significantly increased in recent years.

The second demand, he said, would require the networks to pay as much as outside producers for musicians' overtime, holiday work, labors on daily shows and for those called on to "double," or play more than one instrument during a show.

The spokesman declined to say how much this would be, but said the networks were given more favorable rates than outside producers during the era of network "house bands," staff musicians who were paid each week whether they played or not.

But under the last contract, all network music staffs were phased out as of Jan. 31. And, the AFM official says, "we take the position the networks should meet the same conditions" as outside producers.

Dirty air statistics prove grim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Grim statistics relating to the uncontrolled use of high-sulfur coal in industry and power plants have been reported to the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as it studies new air quality standards.

Dr. John Finklea, research center director for the federal EPA, said the junking of national clean air standards could result in 100-250 more deaths a year, more illness among youngsters and severe health problems for older persons.

Although the Ohio EPA has adopted sulfur dioxide limits more strict than federal standards, it is trying to determine what modifications may be needed for the Ohio power industry because of its reliance on high-sulfur coal as a basic fuel to generate electricity.

Finklea said federal studies indicate uncontrolled sulfur dioxide pollution in Ohio could result in:

—Between 250,000 and 400,000 additional "asthmatic episodes" each year, or about two or three additional attacks per asthmatic.

—Acute difficulties during 68 days of the year for older Ohioans with heart or lung diseases.

—An additional 150,000 to 300,000 cases of acute lower respiratory diseases in children ages 12 and under, an increase of about one severe illness each year for every fourth child.

—Symptoms of chronic lung disease developing in an estimated 40,000 to 60,000 Ohioans after several years of uncontrolled sulfate pollution.

Finklea told the EPA the statistics "are not estimates given to you as precise figures, but to give you the magnitude of the health problems with which you are dealing."

Ohio ranks lowest in terms of tax burden placed on industry and per capita taxes paid by individuals compared with 31 major industrial states, according to an independent study conducted for the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

Limits on hot pursuit

A persistent question about law enforcement practices is raised again by a tragic episode in Los Angeles. The question is: At what point should the police abandon hot pursuit in a heavily populated area?

The incident cited had to do with a 100-mile-an-hour police chase of youthful drag racers through residential streets. At one point a police car engaged in pursuit smashed into a wholly uninvolved car and killed a nine-year-old boy. A short time later other patrol cars caught up with one of the drag racers; the other escaped.

Was it worth it? Is a boy's life a fair exchange for the capture of a drag racer? On the face of it, the answer is clearly in the negative; no one could reasonably argue that bringing a speedster to book, however great his potential for harm to others may have been, outweighed a human life.

The difficulty, of course, is that the police have no means of knowing when hot pursuit may bring such a tragedy. There is always a chance, but law enforcement would be seriously crippled if the police could act only when there was clearly no danger of harm to innocent bystanders.

It is essentially a question depending on circumstances in a given case. One always comes back to that. It is a matter of weighing risks to the innocent against the potential harm of letting suspects escape. The answer to the problem may lie in stricter guidelines for police. That might somewhat lessen the danger of harm to the innocent.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

A futile, dangerous program

WASHINGTON — If any proof were needed, we have seen once again the tragedy of three million Israelis surrounded by a sea of Arab primitivism. Reprisals, no matter how far they go, cannot stamp out the fanatical blood hatreds of the Palestinian terrorists. Even as Israeli planes strike refugee camps in Lebanon, the horror of another Maalot is all but a certainty.

The limitations of American policy are again painfully evident. This is not to say a word in derogation of the efforts of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. His attempt to disengage the Israeli-Syrian forces is diplomacy of patience and persistence of the highest order. But it is the policy of counting on merely a continuing flow of more arms, a policy grounded largely in Congress, that is in the long run futile. It opens the way to the kind of domestic politicking that is Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson's claim to the allegiance of the most influential Jewish groups.

THE SOVIETS are sending arms into the Middle East to match the American shipments. The danger is of a greatly enlarged war. That danger is very real at the moment in the aftermath of Maalot and the reprisal raids.

Reports out of Moscow say that the Soviets have agreed to supply Libya with advanced arms. This coincides with the visit of Libyan Prime Minister Abdel Salaam Jallud. As a sign of the importance attached to his visit, Jallud was met at the airport by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

To put advanced weapons in the hands of the Libyan dictator, Mummar Khadafi, is the height of recklessness. Khadafi is bent on preventing any peaceful settlement in the Middle East. Out of his oil revenue of more than $1 billion a year from Western Europe, he is reported to be financing the more extremist Palestinian groups.

The reprisal raids have put President Anwar Sadat of Egypt as an ally of Kissinger in a different if not dangerous position. Isolation in the Arab world aroused to new fanaticism could put an end to his support of the American peace effort if not indeed an end to Sadat. Khadafi was reportedly the trigger man behind a recent attempt to assassinate the Egyptian president.

In the past, there has been discussion of an American guarantee of Israel in the event of an attack. Such a proposal came from Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The guarantee would be part of a general settlement that would be underwritten in the U.N. Security Council.

FULBRIGHT is poison to the Zionists who fault him for opposing continuing arms shipments. They also took a dim view of the "even-handed" policy of Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Kissinger's predecessor. The Rogers Plan called for only modifications in a return to the borders before the 1967 war.

Kissinger has at least flirted with the idea of a military guarantee for Israel along the lines of the Fulbright proposal. The two have had a close working relationship.

But the threat of a holocaust in the Middle East cannot be ignored. Two Arab states are said to possess missiles with a range of a hundred miles — in easy reach of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Israel, too, is widely believed to have a nuclear weapon. Here is a prescription for Armageddon that is unlikely to be confined to the Middle East. Appeals to reason, to humanity, are of no avail. The madmen capable of Maalot and the atrocities that have preceded it are beyond such appeals. As they have shown, they are quite capable of destroying themselves if they can wipe out any hope of stability and peace that includes the state of Israel.

The refugee camps in Lebanon are festering sores policed by the Fedayeen and therefore centers of Palestinian radicalism.

But they also contain women and children who have committed no other crime than to have been born in an alien environment and subject to the incessant propaganda about their rights to return to their homeland of Palestine. If another Maalot is almost certain, so are other reprisal raids and the ghastly cycle has no end.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, MAY 24

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Influences mostly auspicious, but accuracy and forethought must spark all decisions, moves. Travel and outdoor interests especially favored.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You may not be alert to certain trends, not aware of activities "behind the scene" — may just be believing what you wish to. Think again!

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Concentrate on substantial and pertinent matters. Avoid unwise involvements and complications, but do not sidestep problems which MUST be handled.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Advancement may be fractional, but remain constant, steady at the wheel. Be sure your energies and talents are directed into constructive channels.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Stellar influences suggest a need for added vigor in your thrust forward, but be careful not to alienate associates. Tendencies toward overagressiveness prevail.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You may now have the opportunity to advance through a "different" idea. At least, draw up plans — ready to project at the right moment.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Willingness to listen even though you "know the answers" will pay off in unexpected but delightful ways. You can attain new friends, prestige.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

There's a tendency now to take off on tangents or useless ventures if you don't keep your mind on immediate objectives. Let moderation be your keyword.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

There will be more to this day than is obvious at first, so dig deep for hidden treasures, and have faith that you will succeed. Don't overshoot safe marks, however.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Some persons may act in a manner not fully anticipated. Do not let this throw you off balance or offset your innate tolerance and understanding.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A suggestion to which you have not given much previous thought could, quite unexpectedly, open new doors to progress. Pull it out of your files.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a high order of intellect, an outgoing personality and outstanding versatility. Your talents run the gamut from the stage to the pulpit and fit you for a multiplicity of professions in between. Governed by Mercury, the "messenger of the gods," you could make a notable success of journalism or any of the communications media; could also excel in aviation or any occupation which involves travel. Other fields suited to your talents; literature, playwriting, music, sculpture, research; as an educator or linguist. You are an idealist and a dreamer, but you are a "doe-er" too, since the Geminian is never happy unless active. You are the personification of charm and graciousness, but do try to curb a tendency toward hypersensitivity.

To Charles Harold Norvell:

You are hereby notified that on the 2nd day of May, 1974, John S. Stallman, residing at 521 E. Elm Street, Washington C.H., Ohio, filed in this court a petition for leave to adopt Lori Jo Norvell, minor child, and for a change of the name of said child to Lori Jo Stallman, and alleging that the said Charles Harold Norvell, father, has wilfully failed to properly support and maintain said child for a period of more than two years immediately preceding the filing of this petition for adoption; and that the hearing of said petition, and examination, under oath, of all the parties in interest who may be present, will be had before said court on the 25th day of June, 1974, at 9:30 o'clock A.M.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court, this 6th day of May, 19074.

"HOW DO YOU LIKE THE SMALLER, MORE ECONOMICAL CARS SO FAR?"

Volunteers still like president

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost every weekday for four years, Rae Zeeman has worked without pay at the White House, addressing envelopes, answering the telephone and clipping newspapers.

Mrs. Zeeman is a White House volunteer, one of 250 women who regularly give up a day or two a week to work for President Nixon. Volunteering every day, as Mrs. Zeeman does, is the exception. On an average day, she has 12 to 15 assistants.

"I believe in him," she said. "I've read the transcripts, and I fully believe he's done nothing impeachable. A few things he didn't speak of soon enough.... But I'm just as much for him now as I was in the 1948 (Senate) campaign and when he ran with Eisenhower in 1952."

Mrs. Warren Cannon of Bethesda, Md., said she often works two days a week at the White House "because I'm a registered Republican, and I like President Nixon and his policies. I wouldn't miss a day coming in."

It's hardly the glamorous offices that attract volunteers, mostly housewives from the Washington area. Many of them work in a cramped, windowless office in the attic of the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House.

The woman in charge of the volunteers is Anne Higgins, a 34-year-old New Yorker who said she has worked for Nixon since taking a secretarial job with his New York law firm nine years ago.

"No matter what the attitude of people calling, it's important to me that there be someone responsive here to listen," she said.

Mrs. Higgins, who says her husband converted her from being a registered Democrat to a Republican after she supported President John F. Kennedy, said the volume of letters and phone calls is heaviest after a presidential speech, a press conference or an important news event.

She said the White House received 7,000 letters about Nixon's April 29 speech, in which he announced he would make public the edited transcripts of his Watergate conversations.

And, in the two-week period ending May 7, the White House received 4,500 letters supporting the President but not mentioning the speech and 500 expressing dissatisfaction, she said.

Mrs. Higgins said she knows of no White House volunteers who have quit because they became disillusioned with the President over the Watergate scandal.

"The only thing they say is they're fighting for the President," she said. "They're working harder than ever."

A Columbus resident and native of Knox County, Ridenour has been with the Ohio Peace Officers Training Council since the penitentiary was closed last year.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Is granddaughter heading for trouble?

DEAR ABBY: Maybe this is none of my business but I'm worried about my 14-year-old granddaughter. She's a beautiful child and very mature for her age. That's the trouble I'm afraid. She's growing up too fast for her own good.

She turned 14 last Christmas and her boyfriend (he is 21) gave her a suede coat trimmed with real fur. He also gave her suede boots and a purse to match. That's not all. He gave her a portable TV and stereo set with maybe two dozen albums, plus a ten pound box of candy.

I don't think that a girl that age should be allowed to accept such expensive presents from a man, do you? The girl's father (my son) wasn't too pleased, but the mother thought it was just wonderful, and she even bragged to all her friends about it.

I can't talk to my daughterin-law because she thinks I'm an old fogy, but I'd like to know what you think about this. I'm so afraid that the child is headed for trouble. What can I do?
GRAM

DEAR GRAM: Nothing, unfortunately, since her mother thinks it's "wonderful." Let's hope your granddaughter doesn't have any rough sledding before she finds out there isn't any Santa Claus.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a senior in high school. Lots of the kids at this school get drunk, smoke grass and have sex. They think it's cool.

I don't do any of these things and they call me a square. It's not that I'm better than the others; I just don't want to participate in unlawful or immoral activities. Are there many other kids who don't follow the crowd and try to be cool?
LONER AT S.H.S.

DEAR LONER: Plenty. Those "cool" characters usually end up in hot water up to their necks. In your case, square is smart.

DEAR ABBY: So many older people grumble about how "neglected they are. I wonder if it ever occured to them that if they made an effort to be in good company, they might attract more people. I realize that nobody can be cheerful all the time, but people who talk of nothing but illness, death, hardships present and past, will find that even close relatives give up, and pay only an occasinonal "duty" visit, and never stay any longer than they have to.

Take my mother; My husband and I drove 300 miles to take her out to dinner on Mother's Day. My husband has a wonderful sense of humor and he tried so hard to entertain her, but he couldn't get her to brighten up no matter how hard he tried.

She spent the whole time talking about illness, and death, and everybody's bad luck, and all the depressing subjects in the world.

We could have spent much more time with her, but four hours of her company put us both so down in the dumps we couldn't wait to leave. I was depressed for two days afterwards.

Abby, she's much better off than many others, but she complains constantly, throwing digs about how nobody ever comes to see her. I wish she realized that not ALL older people are avoided. Only the crepe-hangers. Please print this. She may get the hint.
HAD IT WITH MOM

DEAR HAD IT: Don't bet the rent. If she sees it at all, she'll probably apply it to some of her friends.

Gifts presented to mothers at annual M-D banquet

Mothers and daughters of the Women's Christian Fellowship of First Christian Church were presented clever miniature umbrellas as pin on name tags for the annual Mother-Daughter banquet held at the church Tuesday evening. They were made by Mrs. Milbourne Flee and given to guests after registering. All assembled in the sanctuary when Mrs. Charles Sheridan, violinist, and Miss Margaret Gibson, pianist, presented a program of familiar songs. Group singing was also enjoyed.

Mrs. Clark Gossard welcomed everyone and gave the 'thought for the month,' and the invocation. A pink and white theme prevailed in the table decorations. Places were marked with nut cups and miniature flowers made by Mrs. Lloyd Sowders and each received a potted petunia in pink or white.

Following the dinner, devotions taken from the Book of Proverbs were given by Mrs. William Rulon, who also read "A Tribute to All daughters," and "Mothers Reward."' Miss Marcia Rulon sang "Mother of Mine," accompanied by Mrs. David Williams.

Mrs. Gossard presented a fuchsia plant to the oldest mother, Mrs. Ocie Speaks, and to Mrs. James Marine, the youngest. Also introduced were Miss Reva Huff and Miss Marsha Fannin, who presented the program of a beauty demonstration using various cosmetics. Mrs. James Taylor was the model. They had on display several beauty items.

Committees for the evening were composed of: Banquet - Mrs. Flee, Mrs. Russell Riggs and Mrs. Gossard; dining room - Mrs. Charles Ford, Mrs. Mac Dews Sr., Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Rulon and Mrs. Ted Irvin; serving - Paul Thornhill, Glenn Jette, Milbourne Flee, Ted Merritt, Jeff Dunlap and Doug White.

The gifts were placed on a table centered with a flower piece and a blue and white umbrella.

Punch, cookies, strawberry candies, nuts, and mints were served to the following invited guests: Mrs. John Milstead and Mrs. Allen Lewis, mothers of the prospective bride and groom, Mrs. Dorothy Bowen and Mrs. Leonard Milstead, grand-mothers of the bride-elect, Mrs. Ralph Detty, Mrs. Mabel Watson, Mrs. M.C. Creamer, Mrs. Richard Robinson, Mrs. Richard Thornberry, Mrs. Stacey Long, Mrs. Richard Downing, Mrs. Kermit Knox, Mrs. William Straley, Mrs. Danny Snyder, Mrs. Joseph Lanum, Mrs. Jack Fannin, Mrs. Howard Coe, Mrs. Ronald Swigert, Mrs. Nelson Baker, Mrs. Wayne Rayburn, Mrs. Pearl Stewart.

The wedding will be an event of June 29 in the United Methodist Church in Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Moore presented a charm to Mrs. Hagler for having the most hours on the ways and means projects.

The "Outstanding Girl" award is a very special award, and was presented to Mrs. Moore, who received a silver tray. Newlyweds may someday have 'new generation' home

NEW YORK — Young newlyweds concerned about their environment will be happy to know that they one day may have a home built, in part, with a new generation of construction materials containing recycled glass from used jars and bottles.

The Glass Container Manufacturers Institute currently is investigating a process for making bricks from reclaimed bottle glass. The bricks are made to such exact dimensions that they can be glued effectively instead of being set in mortar.

Tomorrow's home also may contain glass wool insulation made by salvaged bottles. The attractiveness of the den, library and living room may be enhanced by decorative wall and ceiling panels made in part from finely crushed glass containers.

The bathroom floors may be covered with a new kind of terrazzo tile containing bits and pieces of multi-colored bottle glass instead of marble chips. It weighs less per square foot than conventional ceramic tile, and can be laid more quickly.

A West Coast university is experimenting with synthethetic "lumber" consisting of 90 to 95 per cent reclaimed bottle glass and 5 to 10 per cent powered, dehydrated cow manure. The material is odorless and sanitary. It can be formed into planks and panels and can be sawed and nailed like wood.

Outside tomorrow's house the driveway may be paved with glasphalt, an experimental new blacktop material containing crushed glass aggregate instead of limestone. Millions of old jars and bottles have been recycled into glasphalt and applied in almost 20 cities in the U.S. and Canada.

Crushed glass used as mulch in flower beds around the house will contribute to the healthy growth of plants and shrubs.

Bricks, building blocks, wall panels, insulation, terrazzo tile and other construction materials made from salvaged glass already have been made under laboratory conditions, according to glass industry spokesmen.

Members attend Convention

The Betra Sigma Phi State Convention was held May 17-19 at the Sheraton Motor Hotel in Columbus. Mrs. Rick Kelley, Mrs. Jim Coldiron, Mrs. Dale Lowe and Mrs. Jud Thompson of Zeta Upsilon Chapter were among the 950 Ohio women who attended the gathering. The theme of the weekend was "The Real Thing - Nostalgia," and the decorations and entertainment for the entire convention followed those lines.

Dinner and entertainment on Friday evening took place in a speakeasy of the 1920's.

Forums and discussions on Saturday were followed by a luncheon at which the theme was "It Started With Eve." The luncheon entertainment was a fashion show which followed women and fashion from the Garden of Eden to modern times.

For Saturday evening, the ballroom was converted into the Delta Queen, and the women were entertained by the Sweet Adelines, an award-winning women's barbershop chorus from Columbus. The dinner was followed by a formal dance.

The theme, "Women For All Seasons," was used for the Sunday Brunch and the convention concluded with a candlelight closing ritual.

The 1974 Ohio Beta Sigma Phi Convention will be held in Toledo May 16-18.

Variety of matters handled by Council

Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night handled a number of miscellaneous items, including the payment of nearly $21,000 for services rendered by an engineering firm and for an amount due to the state police and fireman's disability pension fund. No legislation appeared on Council's agenda.

Council members approved a total payment of $12,694.50 to C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Columbus, for engineering services rendered to the city for the competion of ordinance and facility studies.

City manager Dan Wolford said the amount due the consulting engineering firm will be paid from a $100,000 note the city signed in order to comply with Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulations for improvement at the sewage treatment plant.

The city will be reimbursed for 75 per cent of the payments for all the services when federal grants for the sewage treatment plant project are received, Wolford noted.

THE PAYMENTS included sewer rate ordinance, $4,230; waste water sludge facilities, $810; waste water project changes required by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, $2,040; preparation of sanitary sewer master plan, $2,879.75, and storm sewer master plan, $2,734.75.

Council also approved the first voluntary payment to the state police and firemen's pension fund. The payment is required after the city learned earlier this year that it had lost a court contest involving the payment of the money.

The amount due was $7,201 and Wolford pointed out that Council will be forced to search for other means of retiring the large debt. The authorization for payment was approved by a 6-1 vote with Councilman Ralph Cook objecting.

In other matters, Council received notice of application for two liquor permits in Washington C.H.

Helfrich Super Market, Inc., 806 Delaware St., has applied for a C-2 carryout permit and Arthur E. Pavey, doing business as Pavey's Grocery, 430 Blackstone St., has submitted an application to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control seeking C-1 and C-2 carryout permits. Council members did not voice any objections to the two liquor permit applications.

Council learned that the city has received a shipment of nearly 16 tons of steel to be used in the Washington C.H. Police Department's jail improvement project. The city's legislaror's approved a payment of $11,591.10 for the steel shipment which has been received from the Southern Steel Co., San Antonio, Tex. The total contract for the steel is $17,678 and the total project has been appropriated.

Urge help for senior citizens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A U.S. Department of Labor official has urged delegates to the Governor's conference on Aging to organize and use political muscle to advance the situation of senior citizens.

Charles Odell, former director of the older and retired workers program of the United Auto Workers, told conferees Wednesday that "an organized coalition can be heard widely at the ballot box."

Conference delegates agreed informally to form a coalition to lobby in the Ohio General Assembly.

The 400 delegates approved a host of formal resolutions including:

—A request for $10 million in interest-free loans for grants to older people for home rehabilitation.

—Support for a bill setting aside $4.2 million for free transportation for the elderly and urging allocation of funds for rural transportation for older people.

—Support for bills allowing use of county funds for senior citizens' programs, establishing a state housing finance agency and defining landlord tenant rights.

—A request to the federal government to lift its freeze on federal housing funds.

Earlier Wednesday, Gov. John J. Gilligan told about 3,000 people attending the conference that the failure to utilize the talents, experience, and creativity of senior citizens "has resulted in the loss of opportunity no amount of money will ever restore."

Armed robbery charges dropped

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Armed robbery charges were dismissed Wednesday against Andrew Wallace, 21, after the fourth jury in a year in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court was unable to reach a decision.

Wallace had been accused of a delicatessen and drug store holdup in 1973.

No invasion of brown spiders

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Police Sgt. Paul Gilley breathed a sigh of relief Wednesday after biologists at Miami University reported the town was not facing an invasion of poisonous brown recluse spiders.

The spiders were reported by Michael Rye, who discovered a nest in his grandfather's home. Biologists said the spiders were harmless brown spiders.

Gilley said plans were in the works to evacuate and spray the town.

"Waynesville can sleep tonight," he smiled.

THUNDER STRUCK — Greg Lehrer looks at baseball cap he was wearing when he was struck by lightening in Dallas, Texas. The lightening disintegrated a chain he was wearing, melted the zipper in his pants, fused his legs together and burned his heel. Two policemen coaching another baseball team gave Greg mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage and took him to a hospital. Doctors pried his legs apart and say he is recovering satisfactorily.

Cincinnati fights law nullification

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati City Council Wednesday asked the Ohio House to kill a measure now before it that would nullify the city's new tenant-landlord law.

The local ordinance spells out the obligations for each in the rental of property.

An amendment to House Bill 796 would nullify the local law, according to Councilman Guy Guckenberger.

The longest hunger strike recorded was one of 94 days by nine inmates of Cork Prison, Ireland, from Aug 11 to Nov. 12, 1920.

Viet bonuses not taxable

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission said Wednesday the bonuses are not taxable by any level of government.

And the payments are not subject to seizure or lien, cannot be assigned and are neither negotiable nor transferrable, said John F. Carroll, commission public relations director.

Carroll was answering some of the many questions being received by the bonus headquarters here.

He said veterans who have lost their discharge form or who believe that the one they have is inaccurate should request a new form from the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis.

Carroll said that veterans who do not have the specific dates of their foreign service, including sea and Vietnam duty between Aug. 5, 1964, and July 1, 1973, may obtain such information by writing the finance center of the branch in which they served.

Lake Erie problems pondered

WASHINGTON (AP)—"You can't just pull the plug," an aide to Sen. Robert Taft Jr. said Wednesday in referring to the complexity of the Lake Erie flooding problem.

He said a delegation of Ohio city and county officials who met Wednesday with federal officials and Ohio congressmen "were concerned that problems of the lake don't seem to be getting the critical attention this year that they need.

"On the other hand," he added, "everyone realizes that there's no easy solution to the flooding problem."

The aide said each community presented recommendations and "some were very creative ideas." Local officials were asked to submit their proposals in writing to Ohio's congressional delegation.

The meeting was described as "a working session" by an aide to Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "No real decisions were reached," he said. "Everybody just aired their opinions and gripes."

Attending the three-hour session were three congressmen representing Ohio districts along Lake Erie, the state's two senators, and representatives from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the U.S.-Canadian International Joint Commission and officials from various communities and counties affected by season flooding of the lake.

Because of their diplomatic immunity, foreign diplomats in Britain have dodged paying car parking fines in excess of 250,000 pounds — around $1.3 million — according to Home office figures.

Four juveniles burglarize warehouse on Grace Street

Four Washington C.H. juveniles burglarized a Grace Street warehouse and stole some toys, according to city police.

Four Washington C.H. boys, ages 8,7,7,and 6, were questioned by two of the boys' parents about where they got the baseballs, footballs, kites and kite string they were playing with in the vicinity of Western Avenue Saturday.

It was admitted they had removed a wire securing a gate in a fence on the north side of a storage building owned by Dick Waters, located at 777 Grace St.

They then broke a window on the north side of the building with a rock and entered.

City police reported the incident today and stated the parents will compensate for the damage, estimated at $5.

A car owned by Thomas Penrod, 837½ Washington Ave., was entered sometime between 10:30 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. Wednesday, while parked at 526 Pearl St., police reported.

Four speakers valued at $30, were removed. Police are investigating the theft.

Sparling to attempt new bid for election

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Republican James Sparling Jr., who lost a special election in Michigan's 8th Congressional District last month, says he will try again for the seat in November. Sparling was defeated by Democrat Bob Traxler for a seat Republicans had held since 1932.

Sparling conceded Wednesday for the first time that he felt a visit to the district by President Nixon shortly before the election may have hurt his chances.

Memorial Day services set

In keeping with a stand taken last year, area veterans will hold Memorial Day activities Thursday, May 30, not on Monday which is now the legal holiday.

When Congress elected in 1973 to begin celebrating Memorial Day on the last Monday in May, veterans here refused to honor the change and continue to recognize May 30.

Since school will be in session during the afternoon, the parade is slated to begin at 7 p.m., following essentially the same route as in previous years.

F. Paul Souther, a past district American Legion commander, will be serving as parade marshal, and R. Dean Scholl, Ohio American Legion second vice commander, will deliver the Memorial Day address at Washington Cemetery.

The youth groups are to begin forming at 6:30 p.m. on Main Street between Market and Temple streets, and the bands and veterans groups will form at the same time on Main Street between Court and Market streets.

The parade will start at the intersection of Main and Court streets and travel east over Court Street and Washington Avenue to Washington Cemetery.

SPECIAL SERVICES will be held in Highlawn Memory Gardens at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 26, under the sponsorship of Burnett-Ducey Post 4964 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Lt. Col. J. W. Mankin, a United States Air Force chaplain and 20-year veteran, will be the guest speaker. The invocation and benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Cloyce D. Copley, and music will be provided by the Miami Trace band.

NEW HOLLAND will also observe Memorial Day on May 30. A parade will lead from the American Legion Post to New Holland Cemetery where the Rev. Allen Puffenberger will give the address. The invocation will be called by the Rev. Victor Slutz, and the Adelphia Band will perform.

BLOOMINGBURG has accepted the new holiday and will celebrate at 2 p.m. Monday. Taking part in ceremonies there will be the firing squad of Company C of the Ohio Ntional Guard in Washington C. H., the Grand Army of the Republic, and the Miami Trace band.

Robert W. Moyer, of Wilmington, will deliver the Memorial Day speech and Kelly Hicks will read the Gettysburg Address. A wreath will be presented to the cemetery by Rex Bloomer, and a flag will be presented by the ladies auxiliary.

The invocation and benediction will be given by the Rev. Forest Porter.

JEFFERSONVILLE will also hold its observance on Monday. A parade will form at Jeffersonville School at 10 a.m. The group will stop at the old Jeffersonville Cemetery before proceeding to Fairview Cemetery.

The Rev. Conrad Bower will conduct services, and the Rev. Eugene Griffith will deliver the address.

The Miami Trace High School band will participate in the program which is being coordinated by the William Horney chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Woman cited after crash

A Fayette County woman failed to negotiate a right curve on Ohio 41 and crashed into a fence, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. City police are investigating a hit-skip incident in Hidy's parking lot.

Lenora D. Morris, 17, Rt. 4, traveled off the right side of Ohio 41, when she failed to negotiate a right curve at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

She struck five rods of fence owned by Jess Craigo, Burnett-Perill Rd., and moderately damaged her car.

A pick-up truck struck a car owned by Tina Pauley, 60, Sabina, while the Pauley car was parked in the Hidy Foods parking lot, Columbus Avenue, at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, city police reported.

Moderate damage was incurred by Ms. Pauley's car and the incident is under investigation.

Bicycle rodeo set Saturday

The Fayette County Extension Service office and the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club are sponsoring a bicycle rodeo to test the precision and safety of young riders.

The rodeo will be held in the parking lot facing Temple Street of the Alber's Store, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Several events will be featured in the rodeo, for an example, the slow ride, a test of endurance and skill. This event cannot be done any faster than a certain time and must be done without faltering. There will also be an obstacle course and combined with safety maneuvers such as hand signals and safety practices.

There will be prizes for the winner in each of five age groups. The groups are ninth grade through 12th grades, seventh and eighth grades, fifth and sixth grades, third and fourth grades, and first and second grades.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Fayette County Extension Office 335-1150.

In case of rain the rodeo will be cancelled.

Sign language lets deaf enjoy rock gospel concert

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The music was soft and the room was otherwise silent — until a door slammed. But no one heard the banging door at the "Rock Concert for the Deaf."

The concert, presented in sign language and song before more than 400 persons, must of them deaf, at St. John's Roman Catholic Church here, was devised by the Rev. Dan Pokorny of Washington, D.C.

Pokorny, a 36-year-old chaplain to Lutheran students at Gallaudet College in Washington, said the opportunity to develop rock gospel came in 1969 when the college asked him to form a program of signal, or sign language, poetry.

"I said 'no' to this," he added, "but yes to music — on the deaf man's terms.

"Usually, schools for the deaf have rhythm bands and teachers place deaf children's hands on the piano, but it's always on the hearing man's terms," he argued. "Rock gospel approaches music differently; this is music on the deaf man's terms."

THE ROCK GOSPEL show consists of a rock band, The Sons of Thunder, who back Pokorny and the three others who sign the words while the lead singer performs for the sake of the hearing audience.

Lights, a screen and audience participation highlight the show.

The concert, sponsored by Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant churches and agencies concerned with the deaf, features religious standards such as "Amazing Grace," as well as rock tunes such as "I Can See Clearly Now" and "I Believe in Music," and several original compositions.

To the hearing person, perhaps the most interesting segment of the show was the four-part round of "Rock My Soul" in sign, with three groups signing different verses as the fourth kept up the beat. Each group followed one of the signers on stage as the band played the tune, giving the nonhearing audience the proper vibrations.

TO ACHIEVE the desired emphasis, Pokorny choreographs each sign movement to the particular tune.

"A deaf person can feel vibrations of rock music just as a hearing person can, and these vibrations intermingled with rhythm in signing give the deaf person the idea of music," explained the Rev. Msgr. John P. Hourihan, pastor of St. John's and Archdiocesan apostolate of the deaf.

To illustrate this, the Msgr. Hourihan gave an example of conversation:

"When one signs in conversation, as in vocal conversation, there is no common rhythm, but in song there is a rhythm that all the vocalists adhere to. The rock vibrations furnish the rhythm the deaf person needs to signal a song."

POKORNY said he first became interested in the deaf in 1959 when the Rev. C. Roland Gerholdt, minister of Newark's St. Michael's Lutheran Church for the Deaf, visited Concordia College in Bronxville, N.Y., where he was a student.

"Rev. Gerholdt brought two deaf people with him and they told us how much they appreciated people who took the time to learn sign," he said. "That did it."

In the late 1950s, the Brooklyn-born Pokorny was in seminary training at St. Michael's under the Rev. Gerholdt direction. Gerholdt commented that he "knew that someday Dan would put to use his gift of drama — in some way he would preach the message to the deaf — but I just didn't know how."

IT WAS THEN that he adopted a technique of interpreting movie dialogue into sign language, using a black light and white fluorescent gloves.

After his ordination in 1961, Pokorny began work with the deaf in Indianapolis, where he gained national prominence by using his black light technique to interpret the movie "King of Kings."

Pokorny said the next step for the ensemble was to find some kind of funding on a permanent basis to enlarge the Rock Gospel activities.

Yachts 'sail' waterless Sahara Desert

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yacht racing usually conjures up pictures of white water and flying spray. But camera crews recorded brown sand and flying stones when they filmed a 1,-500-mile "sail"across the Sahara Desert last summer by land yachts from eight countries.

Speeding over the western Sahara with triangular sails taut in the breeze, the one-man craft often race on only two of their three tires as steeply canting hulls lifted one wheel high in the air.

The helmeted yachtsmen maintain a precarious balance by deft handling of two steering wheels: one to maneuver the vehicle's front wheel, the other to trim its brightly colored mainsail.

For their month-long journey, land yahts from Begium, Canada, France, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Poland, the United States and West Germany set out from Tindouf in southern Algeria, once a stop for caravans traveling the old trade route to Timbuktu.

Though the light craft can go up to 60 miles an hour, alternate stretches of undulating sand hills and patches of hazardous rock and loose stones frequently cut their speed in half.

Sohio awarded $39,000 damages

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Butler County Common Pleas Court jury Wednesday awarded Sohio a $39,000 judgement against a Middletown man who accidentally blew up one of their stations.

Police said William Lewis discarded a match while manager Larry Taylor was draining gasoline from Lewis' sports car. The fumes caught fire and destroyed the station and the car Feb. 24, 1973.

The same jury dismissed a cross petition by Lewis against Taylor also charging negligence.

The heaviest normal newborn child recorded in modern times was a boy weighing 24 pounds 4 ounces, born on June 3, 1961, to Mrs. Saadet Cor of Ceyhan, southern Turkey.

Strauss says Ford 'orchestrated'

"It would be amusing, really, to watch Vice President Ford being orchestrated," Strauss said in a speech to a small gathering of Ohio Democrats here.

Strauss said Ford is being orchestrated "on the one hand by those who advise him, and on the other, by the White House; each going in different directions, each getting him to spout the line of the day and forgetting the line of yesterday."

For example, Strauss said, four weeks ago Ford labeled the U.S. House of Representatives a "do-nothing Congress."

"This week he's running about talking about a legislative dictatorship," said Strauss.

"In 1972 he was campaigning for a Congress that would give its total support to the President while today he worries about one that might be veto-proof," said Strauss.

"And just 24 hours ago, in a quiet meeting with former members of Congress, he had the nerve to say to them that he has more respect for the Congress today than he did when he served in it. What line will we hear from the Vice President tomorrow?" asked Strauss.

Ford relinquished his Republican congressional seat in Michigan when he was picked as vice president.

Strauss also reiterated to the seminar of Ohio Democrats who are seeking congressional seats that there should be no call for the President to resign over Watergate.

"Let's not call for the resignation of Richard; let's press for a fair and honorable and lawful constitutional response to this whole mess and let the system respond," declared Strauss.

"For those in our country who would call for Richard Nixon's resignation, let's remember what Richard Nixon was, and did when he perceived himself to be a hero," said Strauss. "What horrors await us if he is allowed to portray himself as a martyr!"

Strauss urged the candidates to talk about issues that he said are on the minds of Americans — inflation, education, unemployment, pension reform and national health insurance.

"They are not going to elect us if we run around the country yelling 'Watergate, Watergate, Watergate,'" said Strauss.

Labor showdown scheduled today

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Leaders of an opposition faction within the Ohio AFL-CIO exuded confidence Wednesday as their showdown with President Frank W. King approached.

Balloting for the top offices was scheduled for today. Results of the voting were to be announced Friday.

Delegates have nominated 69 candidates for 34 vice president posts, which, with the offices of president and secretary-treasurer, make up the executive board.

The entire board is up for reelection except for two vice presidents who have declined to run.

Milan Marsh, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio State Council of Carpenters, and Warren J. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the state AFL-CIO, lead the dissident ticket.

Nomination of Marsh, who opposes King for the presidency, and Smith, who is seeking re-election, triggered a colorful demonstration Wednesday complete with marching band, drum majorettes and twirling campaign signs.

More than a third of the delegates appeared to join the parade as it wound through the convention hall, spectators said.

"We will return to business as soon as the Ringling Brothers leave the floor," was the response of acting Chairman Cnarles R. Pinzone, a state AFL-CIO vice president.

Disagreement between King and the Marsh-Smith wing over labor's relations with the Democratic party and especially Gov. John J. Gilligan have split the body's executive board.

But Smith, who was believed behind a 50-page attack on King's leadership over the last 10 years circulating among the delegates, refused to be dragged into an open debate with the president.

Charles R. Pancake, an Electrical Workers leader and a King loyalist, tried to start a floor discussion of King's stewardship but was shouted down. It took Marsh's personal intervention to quiet his followers.

Smith and Marsh called a news conference Tuesday to announce they had commitments of enough votes after caucuses of state delegations to insure their ticket's victory.

Brooke sees Nixon losing effectiveness

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Edward Brooke said there is increasing evidence that Soviet leaders may doubt President Nixon's ability to make agreements that will be supported by the U.S. Congress and the American people.

The Massachusetts Republican said in a lecture at the University of Akron Wednesday night that the President's scheduled trip to Moscow in June may be viewed as a "cynical attempt to cloud the impeachment issue."

Brooke said Soviet leaders may be unwilling to deal with Nixon on substantive issues during his Moscow visit.

"If this were the case, a summit meeting would be nothing more than a hollow shell, devoid of substantive purpose," Brooke said.

Brooke said it would be "certainly demeaning to the office of the presidency, particularly if President Nixon were perceived by others to be going to Moscow in quest of the Kremlin's help to bolster his image at home."

Group backs proposals on education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio College Association Wednesday endorsed 31 recommendations of the Citizens' Task Force on Higher Education to the General Assembly and Ohio Board of Regents.

The presidents of most of the 72 private and public colleges and universities, community and technical colleges in the association attended the meeting.

The presidents did object to a task force proposal to divide the state into uniform planning regions for post-secondary education.

They said the plan would not allow flexibility to adapt to individual problems or areas of study.

The group also urged that a task force recommendation for fee reciprocity with Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kentucky be amended to include all surrounding states.

The association also suggested limiting a freeze on underclass student fees at public institutions to the 1975-77 biennium saying if the current inflation rate continues, fee increases are inevitable.

MT Band Boosters plan music clinic

The Miami Trace Band Boosters Club met Monday night for its final monthly meeting and served a fund-raising dinner to the Miami Trace Teachers Association Tuesday night.

Paul Febo, band director, announced at the monthly meeting that final arrangements are being made for band members to attend a music clinic at Camp Clifton Aug. 5-9.

The Fayette County Board of Education will provide transportation to the camp and the cost to each band member will be slightly $30. Possible fund-raising projects for the group were discussed, but no action was immediately taken.

Officers of the club for the 1974-75 school year were introduced. They were Mrs. Frank White, who was re-elected to another term as president, Mrs. Merle Jenkins, vice president; Mrs. Melvin Krieger, secretary; Mrs. Harold Thompson, treasurer; and Mrs. Carl Krieger, news reporter.

The dinner held at Miami Trace High School Tuesday generated funds for the club treasury. Proceeds will be used for scholarships to the August camp and to help pay for the new band uniforms.

New York City has water frontage of 750 miles, 300-foot-deep water berths and three major airports.

IMA DARLING

JEFF WILLIS

Seniors of the Week

By SUE MOORE

The first featured senior is Ima Darling, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darling, 1020 N. North St.

Ima's school subjects include Government, Trigonometry, Drama, Fundamentals of Writing, Home-ec, and Phys. Ed. Her many activities are cheerleading, T-Teens, AFS, National Honor Society, secretary of the senior class, and activities editor of the Sunburst. Ima also had a part in the play "The Mouse That Roared."

In spite of her busy schedule, Ima somehow finds time to enjoy swimming, water skiing, ice skating, bike riding, and just having a good time. Her future plans are not definite, but she's thinking about attending Ohio State University and going into medicine or law. Ima's looking forward to graduation, although she will miss her activities and her friends. Her final comment was: "I'm sad to think that I have less than a week to be considered a high school student. However, I have several treasured memories that I will always carry with me. The biggest of them all is the honor I had of cheering for the NO. 1 football and basketball team.

"I wish the underclassmen the best of luck and hope that they will be able to see and be a part of the spirit that I have seen this year. I also hope their senior year will be as great as mine has been."

THE NEXT featured senior is Jeff Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Willis, 428 Forest St. His hobbies include playing the drums, ice skating, and music. He also loves rock concerts and girls.

Jeff's subjects in school are mechanical drawing, physics, humanities, and trigonometry. His activities include AFS, Hi-Y, Letterman's Club, and the honor of being a member of the great football team.

Jeff says he's looking forward to graduation, but he will miss all the girls and the sports. He plans to attend Ohio State University and study aeronautical engineering. His final comment was: "To all my brothers and friends that will still be here next year, I hope they get-over as well as I did. Take it slow and find happiness!

Road construction cuts aired

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The energy crisis is not the only reason for major cutbacks in state highway construction, but "it was the straw that broke the camel's back," said J. Phillip Richley, director of Ohio Department of Transportation.

Richley said a number of factors, including inflation, contributed to the situation which has caused a 24 per cent drop in state highway construction projects over the past four years.

But the Ohio Contractors Association (OCA) isn't satisfied with Richley's explanation for the cutbacks.

"The state's highway construction program has been reduced drastically for the last two years and the unemployment rate is very high in the industry," the OCA said in a statement Wednesday.

Karl L. Rothermund, Jr., OCA executive vice president, accused the state officials of using the energy crisis as a "scapegoat."

"The delay of construction projects is caused by the decision at the state level to permit inadequate road financing to occur...and was clearly avoidable," Rothermund said.

Richley admits the department had foreknowledge of some financial difficulty, but was unable to increase revenues to face it.

"Gov. John J. Gilligan has an avowed policy against tax increases," Richley said, "so we had to live within our budget."

The transportation chief said the states embarks on only the most heavily federally funded projects, but Ohio has already used up its federal money for this fiscal year.

Rettermund maintained however, that the state is out of money to improve roads because its cost of maintenance and payroll have skyrocketed and over $18 million annually is taken from gasoline tax receipts to subsidize the Department of Highway Safety.

Meanwhile, the OCA announced wage agreements with four unions covering some 30,000 workers in heavy, municipal and utility construction.

Agreements were reached under terms of wage opener clauses with the Ohio Laborers' District Council, Cement Masons and Bricklayers International Union, Ohio Conference of Teamsters and Local 18, Operating Engineers Union.

Charles W. Rinehart, OCA Industrial relations director, said the wage increases range from 5 to 8 per cent, effective May 1974, and amount to hourly wage-packages of 30 to 70 cents per hour for Operating Engineers, and 60 cents per hour for the Teamsters, Cement Masons and Laborers.

The statewide agreement also covers workers in Boone, Campbell, Pendleton and Kenton counties in northern Kentucky, he said.

Cat rescue proves flop

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The 19-year-old son of a Cincinnati fire captain tried to follow in his father's footsteps but had to be rescued from a tree by firemen in a rainstorm.

Stephen Marshall, son of Capt. Jack Marshall, heard a local radio station plea from Rocco DeCioccio that his 2-year-old cat, "Min," was stranded high in a tree.

Young Marshall, a part-time roofer, drove to the location and had climbed up 40 feet "when I froze." The cat was 15 feet higher and out on a limb.

The first arriving firemen didn't have a long enough ladder and had to call for help. Marshall was brought down by the second company.

The cat?

Firemen left her in the tree.

"We rescue people who try to rescue cats," said Capt. Donald Budde, "but we don't rescue cats. It's against regulations."

Grant priorities being studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, has asked U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, to meet with him and U.S. EPA officials to discuss methods of drawing up a grant priority list.

Whitman took issue Wednesday with Taft's charges that a federally-required priority list for wastewater construction grants was drawn up politically.

He said the Ohio EPA has "worked overtime to compile a fair impartial list of projects and to insure public participation."

Scioto County men die in crash

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — A two-car collision on Ohio 104 near Rushtown Wednesday killed two Scioto County men, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

The victims were identified as Daniel Himes, 27, of Portsmouth, and David Meyer of Friendship.

Shirley Boyd named advisor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Shirley Boyd, director of youth activities for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation will take over May 31 as advisor to the youth subcommittee of the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee.

The federation announced the appointment Wednesday.

Ohio Perspective

State eyes make-work plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's General Assembly is being asked to take up the slack in a sagging federal program by seeking on its own to put welfare recipients into productive jobs.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, and several other legislators have introduced a bill that would place welfare clients on the public payroll.

It would work something like the federal Work Incentive Program, which has been sharply curtailed as a result of cutbacks in federal funds.

Kurfess explained that the state would partially finance jobs created specifically for welfare clients for a period of five years. The jobs could be created within any agency of state government.

During the first three years, the employing agency would be reimbursed by the Bureau of Employment Services for 75 per cent of the salary paid, or $400 a month, whichever was the lesser.

In the fourth year, the agency would get 50 per cent, or $300, and in the fifth year, 25 per cent, or $200, whichever is the lesser, Kurfess said.

The minority leader said the idea of the program was to provide opportunities to welfare families who otherwise might remain on relief rolls indefinitely.

Kurfess conceded that the vast majority of welfare funds go for Aid to Dependent Children, but said that finding a job for the parent or parents of such children "will take the children off the welfare roles."

Kurfess estimated $3,600 as the cost of each job created. He envisioned as many as 4,000 jobs in the first year of the program's operations, and said such an effort would cost the state $14.4 million.

The former GOP House speaker said he would seek the support of majority House Democrats on the basis of an existing surplus of 1973-1975 revenues.

"The money is available," he said.

Under his bill, public employment career positions would be made available to individuals who have been on Aid to Dependent Children or General Relief for at least six months. They must have been classified as employable by their county welfare department and could not be diverted from any welfare training program in which they already were enrolled.

Kurfess said the new positions would be included in the civil service system where appropriate and the employe would not be subject to competitive examination during the first six months of employment.

Housing market has new setback

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the future of housing may already seem as forlorn as an abandoned cellar excavation, still another dismal report has been issued by an important mortgage banker.

The nearly impossible situation faced by the industry is exemplified by a massive outflow of funds from mortgage lenders, by rising mortgage rates, and by materials costs that are rising at an unpredictably swift rate.

But a report by Advance Mortgage Corp. of Detroit suggests that still another factor adds to the pummeling being administered to housing. In spite of pay increases, that is, customers are literally unable to buy.

Advance Mortgage summarized the predicament this way: "Home-buying costs have been rising some 3½ times as fast as their customers' income." This indicates that, even if they can borrow, many customers won't do so.

"In the past 12 months," the report continues, "average new home prices have increased at least 18 per cent, and mortgage interest rates on a 90 per cent mortgage are now in the range of 9½ per cent where usury laws permit, compared to 8¼ per cent a year ago.

"That adds up to a 28 per cent increase in the monthly payments on a typical home mortgage — compared to an 8 per cent increase in average personal income."

And the sales prices might go higher still. Irving Rose, president of Advange Mortgage, a subsidiary of the First National City Corp., notes that while raw land costs have leveled off, total development costs have risen.

Cost increases are said to be especially severe in petroleum based components such as asphalt paving and shingles and plastic pipe, and metal items such as sewer pipes and reinforcing bars.

"Builders are complaining they don't know what their houses will cost," Rose relates. "In Florida, some single-family home builders are completing entire tracts in advance of any attempt to sell so they will know their complete costs before setting a price. Others are pre-selling but with escalation clauses."

Advance Mortgage concludes: "The housing recovery projected for this year has died in its cradle."

Several factors involved in rising hospital costs

"Hospital costs are a reality that we all must live with. For the past several years, hospitals have been criticized for the high cost of hospitalization and there are a multitude of factors which has caused this high inflation," according to Robert L. Kunz, Fayette Memorial Hospital administrator.

When Phase I came into being, the hospital seemed to be the main target. This became more evident when Phases II, III and IV were announced. Under Phase IV, the health care field and oil companies were to remain under the Federal Control Program. Congress let the Economic Stabilization Act expire on April 30, 1974, this meant no more controls, Kunz said.

What effect this is going to have on hospital costs will remain to be seen. Hospitals are doing everything within their power to keep the cost down to the patient and Fayette Memorial Hospital is no exception.

"In the past years, we have had one of the lowest room rates in Central Ohio. This is, both, good and bad. Good from the standpoint of the patient, but bad in revenue input to the hospital," Kunz noted.

Another unique feature of Fayette Memorial Hospital is that during February 1974, the patient's average length of stay was 6.09 days while the national average during this same period was 7.4 days, almost a day and one-half less patient stay at Fayette County Memorial Hospital. "Why? Because of excellent medical care, quality physicians and hospital employes who care," Kunz pointed out.

"What all of this boils down to is that no matter how hard we try to provide quality medical care at the best price, inflation and the government are going to effect the cost," Kunz said. To emphasize this point even more, since Jan. 1974, to the present time, the hospital has experienced price increases, from their supplies, in eleven areas. These increases have ranged from 5 per cent to as high as 67 per cent. "We have had to pay more for the products needed, but were controlled as to the cost that we could pass on to the patient. Out of these 11 price increases, for example, our intravenous solutions increased 17 per cent," Kunz remarked. The net result of this is the elimination of needed working capital to operate the hospital.

Another area which will cause hospital costs to increase is the recently enacted minimum wage law. Although initially this will have little effect, but by 1975, it is going to cause hospital costs to rise even higher.

Fayette Memorial Hospital has a strong sound budget and cost containment program. This program has been in effect for the past four years and will remain in effect for many more years. "We are doing everything possible to keep costs down through sound fiscal management policies and procedures," Kunz said. "But, no matter how hard we try in the health care field, the costs are going to continue to increase," he noted.

"It is hoped that the public will understand the difficulties we are encountering in the areas of hospital costs and will continue to give us the understanding, help and consideration that they have always given us in the past," he said.

Fair skies bring relief to mid-U.S.

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers dampened the East today, while fair skies brought relief to much of the nation's waterlogged midsection.

Rain washed an area from the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic Coast and the coastal sections of New England. Thundershower activity also extended from the Ohio Valley to the Gulf Coast, dumping nearly 2 inches of rain at Knoxville, Tenn., and about 1 inch at Atlanta, Ga.

In the wake of floods that forced hundreds from their homes Wednesday in north-central Illinois, Gov. Daniel Walker asked President Nixon to declare the state a disaster area.

During the night, hail the size of ping pong balls pounded an area in north-central Oklahoma. A tornado was sighted in the same area, but there were no reports of damage or injuries.

Elsewhere, light rain developed in the Pacific Northwest and in Southern California.

Generally, skies were clear over the central portion of the nation, partly cloudy in the West and cloudy in the East.

Woman named new Ohio chief for consumers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Commerce Director Dennis Shaul announced Wednesday the appointment of Diane R. Liff, 29, as the new chief of the agency's Consumer Protection Division.

She succeeds Lynne Skilken, who was fired earlier this month in a dispute with Shaul, who contended she didn't spend enough time on the job.

Ms. Liff, who uses that title by preference, has been with the division's civil rights section since 1972. She received her law degree from the University of Chicago and her undergraduate degree from Wooster College.

The appointment is effective June 10.

Barge spill cleaned up

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Coast Guard reopened the Ohio River to shipping at Cincinnati early today after the river had been closed since early Wednesday evening when a barge rammed into pilings, spilling a large quantity of kerosene.

A second barge in the same tow line and containing 160,000 gallons sulpheric acid sank, but apparently little, if any, of the acid leaked into the water according to port captain Commander Rudy Somer.

The river was reopened about 2:20 a.m., after danger from the kerosene had ended, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Somer was to survey the spill from the air today.

Traffic across the L&N Bridge, connecting Cincinnati with Newport and Covington in Kentucky was stopped for a short time after the accident.

New camping area readied at Deer Creek

A new camping area with 232 fully-equipped sites will be formally opened at Deer Creek State Park Friday in preparation for the Memorial Day weekend.

William B. Nye, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, will join with Lt. Col. Orland K. Hill, deputy district engineer of the Huntington, W. Va., district of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and other government officials to open the new Class A sites in a ceremony at 10 a.m. at the Pickaway County park.

Renney Water Systems, of Columbus, constructed the camping facility for the Corps of Engineers at a cost of $1,123,922. The campground includes four washrooms with showers and laundry facilities, six restrooms, a trailer waste station and a parking lot.

The sites, all with electricity available, will rent on a first-come, first served basis for $2.50 a night.

The Corps of Engineers has turned over the new campground to the Department of Natural Resources as a part of the 7,000-acre state park much like facilities at Delaware, Dillon and Mosquito state parks.

Ohio income tax suit rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Franklin County Court of Appeals has refused to declare the state's income tax law unconstitutional in a suit filed by two Medina couples.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tiefel and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carlisle, contended the law discriminates against married taxpayers by denying them the option to file separate returns if they filed a joint federal tax return.

Judge Horace Troop said Tuesday the requirement was irritating, but said declaring the law unconstitutional would be much more disastrous.

Testimony to continue in Indianapolis 500 lawsuit

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The winner of the 58th annual Indianapolis 500-mile auto race could be decided, in part, through court action.

Testimony was to resume today in Marion County Superior Court on a lawsuit that sought to reopen qualifications for the Sunday, May 26, race to five entrants who claim they were deprived of a chance to make the field.

Attorneys for the five plaintiffs, Roy Woods Racing, Carl Gehlhause, K & L Racing, Eldon Rasmussen Racing Products and Webster Racing, called three of a planned 47 witnesses Wednesday after defense attempts to kill the suit failed.

One witness, Indianapolis Motor Speedway Vice President Joe Cloutier, said that one of the plaintiffs, if allowed to qualify now for the 33-car field, might "win the race, and that would bring the other cars in the field down on us."

He added, "At stake here is not only the prize money, but the prestige and commercial endorsements that can run into millions for the winner. We'd have lawsuits from every other driver now in the field, if that happened."

Chief Steward Tom Binford testified that the cars left waiting in line when time trials ended Saturday at 6 p.m. were no longer guaranteed at least one chance for the field.

"One car that went through the line before them was on its second attempt, although the first time out with a new driver," he said. "That broke the line of first-time qualifiers."

Those suing contend that the car in question, No. 94, driven by rookie Johnny Parsons, was improperly placed in line and even moved ahead of others.

"What we wanted to bring out," said plaintiffs' attorney Don A. Tabbert, "was that when Binford let the car in the lineup, he was in effect disqualifying unjustly the other cars in line."

Binford also testified that the track was closed by rain for all but about five of the 14 hours allotted for qualification runs this year.

Tabbert contended there was sufficient time for qualification attempts by only "about 38 or 39" of the 68 entrants.

Attorneys for the defendants, the Speedway and the U.S. Auto Club, tried for a "temporary mandatory injunction" to stop the race until reopening of qualifications. Judge Frank A. Symmes Jr. overruled the requests and a motion for a change of venue, which would have in effect killed the case also.

Regardless of the outcome, carburetion tests were scheduled today for the 33 cars in the field and two alternates.

Also planned was a five-mile bicycle race around the track teaming the drivers and guests.

Hillsboro nears crown with 6-1 win over Trace

BY LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Hillsboro traded the long ball for the bunt, as the Indians erupted for four runs in the top half of the fifth inning to clip Miami Trace 6-1 on the Panthers' field, Wednesday evening.

Three consecutive bunt singles by Kevin Bailey, Steve Coy and Dennis Wharton loaded the bases to lead off the fifth frame. Bailey crossed the plate on Brent Zink's sacrifice fly and Coy tallied when Larry Gibbs was safe on a fielder's choice. Bob Seeling's single brought Wharton in for the third run of the inning. Seeling stole second, but Gibbs was picked off at third base. Dave Larimer slashed a single to right to bring in the final run of the stanza.

Sophomore pitcher Jack James was brought up from the reserve team to start for the Panthers. James was lifted after the fifth inning, as he gave up five runs, four of which were earned, and nine hits. He struck out four and did not give up a walk.

Junior Tom Riley replaced James in the top of the sixth. The Indians reached Riley for one earned run and two hits, as he walked five and struck out two.

Larry Gibbs hurled the entire seven innings for the winners. The one run he gave up was earned and he limited the Panthers to six hits. Gibbs struck out seven and walked two.

Hillsboro took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the top of the third frame. Coy reached first on a single to left and advanced to third on two errors. Brent Zink's sacrifice fly scored Coy.

Riley's wildness in the sixth accounted for Hillsboro's final run. Bailey took first on a walk and went to second on a fielder's choice. Wharton's single up the middle scored Bailey.

Jay Mossbarger's single led to the Panthers' only run in the fifth stanza. After stealing second, Mossbarger scored on Kevin Dunn's single into left field.

Since Miami Trace's seniors are no longer in school, they did not play in Wednesday's game. The Panthers conclude their season Friday night at Unioto.

Miami Trace is now 6-7 in the South Central Ohio League. The Panthers have a 8-14 record for the season.

Hillsboro is now one game from clinching at least a tie for the SCOL championship. The indians are 10-3 in the SCOL and 15-5 for the year.

Prep track opens state championships

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An abundance of defending champions has qualified for the Ohio high school track, golf and tennis meets Friday and Saturday at Ohio State.

Track is the pacesetter, especially in Class AAA. Cleveland Glenville, the 1973 team titlist, returns as do nine individual titleholders and two relay champions among the large schools.

Glenville, with its defending 880-yard and mile relay units the fastest in the state this spring, rates an excellent chance of winning its sixth track crown in the last nine years in Ohio Stadium.

Brookville, the 1973 Class AA track ruler, qualified only one man this time. Lorain Clearview, the Class A champion last year, has an outside chance again, led by ace high jumper Larry Fortner.

Bob Hennings of Cleveland Collinwood will bid for a sweep of the Class AAA 100 and 220 titles for the second straight season.

A classic duel is shaping up in the pole vault. West won last year with 14-8 while Upper Arlington's Tom Rice, the 1972 champion, also returns. Rice won his title for Columbus Westland, but was hurt last year.

The track meet in Ohio Stadium has a trio of all-sports stars, Stan Johnson of Sandusky, Burris and Fortner.

Johnson, The Associated Press Ohio Class AAA Lineman of the Year in football last fall, won two district crowns last week with 58-4 in the shot put and 171-2½ in the discus.

Burris is a 6-foot-6 all-stater in basketball while Fortner starred as a quarterback in football and started for Clearview's Class A state basketball tournament champions.

Among the contenders for the Class AA team crown are Warrensville Heights, Cleveland Orange, Warren Kennedy, Columbus DeSales and Dayton Jefferson.

Around the area

Playing in a steady drizzle, Billie Wilson Chevrolet women's softball team won its second game of the season, as BCI of London fell to a 34-6 defeat, Wednesday evening.

Leading the hitting attack for Billie Wilson Chevrolet was Pam Matson. Matson collected six hits in six appearances at the plate. Her hits included a home run and two triples, which helped account for six runs batted-in.

Debbie Morarity and Shirley Hurless also proved to be big factors in the winning effort. Morarity knocked in six runs, while Hurless accounted for five.

Cincinnati falls nine games back

Dodgers sweep series from Reds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Steve Garvey has the enviable position of batting just behind hot Jim Wynn in the Los Angeles Dodgers' lineup.

It is enviable in that Wynn, a .316 hitter who is leading the majors in home runs with 14 and runs batted in with 41, has also walked 38 times.

"I think so, whether it's consciously or subconsciously," replied Garvey when asked if pitchers tend to bypass Wynn to get to him. "It's probably an ideal situation. I'm bound to get some RBIs."

Garvey has certainly made the most of the situation, driving in 36 runs himself, which ranks just behind Wynn's National League-leading mark. He drove home four more Wednesday night, pacing Los Angeles to a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati as the Dodgers completed a three-game series sweep of the Reds to balloon their Western Division lead to nine games.

The Dodgers nearly made a rout of the Reds Wednesday night, opening 5-0 lead after two innings. Garvey's two-run double in the first started Fred Norman to his fourth loss in seven decisions and then the Los Angeles first baseman finished him off with a bases-loaded single in the second. Norman was followed by five other pitchers as the Reds attempted to slow the Dodgers, who have now won 13 of their last 15 games.

The Reds got two runs off winning pitcher Al Downing, 22, when Tony Perez and Merv Rettenmund singled home runs in the third.

When Joe Morgan singled to score pinch hitter Phil Gagliano with Cincinnati's third run in the sixth, Mike Marshal was summoned from the bullpen for the 27th time this season and the sixth time in a row.

He got Johnny Bench to ground into a double play to end the inning and pitched out of another jam in the ninth to earn his fifth save and second in the series.

In the three games, Los Angeles completely manhandled Pete Rose, who fought a constant battle with the fans in the left field pavilion. Rose was 0-for-12 in the three games and only twice managed to hit the ball out of the infield.

Garvey, now hitting .320, which is tops among the regulars, has a two-fold reason for his improvement at the plate.

"The first thing is the opportunity to play regularly," he said, "and the other thing is playing first base. I feel at ease at first base. I know I'm going to play so I go out knowing I can hit. Now I'm adding power and I'm sure that's what they (the Dodgers) want."

Horton trades mud for beer

By The Associated Press

Willie Horton gave Milwaukee fans mud in their eye Wednesday night because they got beer in his.

The Detroit Tigers' slugging left fielder was the target of some naughty words the previous night when he hit two home runs. Wednesday night he was showered twice with beer after hitting a two-run homer that powered the Tigers to a 6-4 decision over the Brewers.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Cleveland Indians 1-0 in 12 innings, the Boston Red Sox extended their Fenway Park hex over the New York Yankees 6-3, the Oakland A's downed the Minnesota Twins 7-4, the California Angels beat the Kansas City Royals 6-1 and the Chicago White Sox split a doubleheader with the Texas Rangers, winning the opener 6-2 and dropping the nightcap 8-2.

Horton's seventh-inning homer, his 11th of the season, came off rookie Bill Travers and landed in the left field bleachers where, he said, the fans had cursed him a night earlier.

Angels 6, Royals 1

Frank Robinson and Joe Lahoud hit home runs and a controversy over a call on a rundown paved the way for three first-inning runs as California's Bill Singer's pitched a five-hitter.

Robinson's homer in the fifth was the 560th of his career and raised his total of extra base hits to 1,132, tying Tris Speaker for seventh place on the all-time list

Orioles 1, Indiana 0

Paul Blair's run-scoring single after Boog Powell's double and an intentional walk to Brooks Robinson drove in the game's only run while Ross Grimsley blanked Cleveland on eight hits.

A's 7, Twins 4

Reggie Jackson drove in five runs with his 13th homer, a double and a single and Joe Rudi socked a tie-breaking two-run triple in the ninth inning.

Red Sox 6, Yankees 3

Cecil Cooper and Bernie Carbo drove in fifth-inning runs as the Red Sox posted their eighth consecutive home victory over the Yankees. Boston has won 17 of 18 Fenway meetings with New York since August 1972.

White Sox 6-2, Rangers 2-8

Texas' Jeff Burroughs, who leads the majors with 45 runs batted in and who homered in the opener, belted a two-run triple in a three-run third inning and Ferguson Jenkins struck out 10 batters in the nightcap for his seventh victory.

Chicago's Jerry Hariston pinch hit an RBI single that ignited a tie-breaking four-run seventh inning in the opener to give Wilbur Wood his fifth straight triumph.

Security guards aid Atlanta in victory

By The Associated Press

There were a couple of extra men in blue in San Francisco and Atlanta Braves Manager Eddie Mathews said they gave his club a boost.

Besides the traditional men in blue keeping law and order on the four bases, there was a Burns security guard stationed at each end of the Atlanta dugout, insuring the safety of the new crowned king—home run record holder Henry Aaron.

"They did a good job today. It made a big difference, really helped us" Mathews said Wednesday after the Braves dropped the San Francisco Giants 6-2.

The two guards posted on orders of Giants owner Horace Stoneham, were around to protect Aaron after he was hit on the head by an orange hurled into the Braves dugout Tuesday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs downed the New York Mets 9-6; the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 6-3; the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-1, the Houston Astros knocked off the San Diego Padres 5-1, and the game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Montreal Expos was rained out.

Aaron snapped a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring double that triggered a four-run Atlanta outburst in the sixth inning.

Astros 5, Padres 1

Milt May liked his first homer as an Astro so much, he did it again.

May, an offseason acquisition, slammed his first homer for Houston Tuesday night, then slugged a pinch hit grandslam homer Wednesday night with two outs in the bottom of the ninth, giving the Astros their second straight victory after 10 losses in a row.

Cubs 9, Mets 6

Jerry Morales, who drove in three earlier runs with a solo homer and a two-run single, crashed a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning, lifting Chicago over New York.

Phils 7, Cards 1

Del Unser backed Ron Scheuler's two-hit pitching with three RBIs on a home run and a single, powering Philadelphia past St. Louis.

Lou Brock opened the first with a double for St. Louis, then Scheuler retired the next 11 batters before Jose Cruz blasted a solo homer in the fifth.

Scheuler struck out four and walked two.

They've got thieves down on the farm

DES MOINES (AP) — Thieves have hit one out of every five Iowa farmers within the past three years, according to a poll conducted by Wallaces Farmer, one of the nation's oldest rural publications.

The magazine's pollsters asked the following question of 477 Iowa farm men and women: "Have you been a victim of theft with in the last three years?" Twenty percent replied yes. Heading the list of things stolen were fuel, livestock, machinery and tools.

Also, the poll showed that theives tended to pick their targets from the wealthier farms. Of farmers with less than $10,000 yearly income, 17 per cent reported farm thefts. Of those who earned $40,000 or more, 25 per cent reported thefts.

National forest records wolf calls

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you hear a wolf call in the Shoshone National Forest east of Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, you may just be tuning in on a tape recording intended to flush any real wolves out of the woods.

The Fish and Wildlife Service is using this method to seek information on the Northern Rocky Mountain Wolf, once thought to be extinct in the United States.

There have been recent reports, however, of wolf sightings in Montana, and sightings and howlings in Wyoming.

They'll Do It Every Time

Want ticks collected and mailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department wants cattle producers to search their animals for ticks and then mail the little creatures to a laboratory in Texas.

Not that USDA is starting a new entomological zoo. It's because one kind of tick threatens to spread cattle tick fever over a large portion of the United States unless the pests are cornered and eliminated.

The department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service issued this advice Wednesday: "Go catch a cattle tick. Save your cattle ... Look especially on the shoulder and flank areas. And send all ticks to the State-Federal Laboratory, 702, Colorado St., Austin, Tex. 78701."

Cattle fever ticks, which once cost producers $40 million a year in animal losses, were eradicated from the United States in 1943. Some small outbreaks occurred afterward, but the pests remained under control for the most part until August 1972.

At that time, a severe outbreak occurred in the area of Alice, Tex. A federal-state quarantine was imposed and control measures put into effect. No ticks have been found in the area since last February and officials are hopeful the quarantine can be lifted by next fall or sooner.

Although the southern areas are most susceptible to the spread of fever ticks, officials say the pests can be carried into other regions if precautions are not followed.

A permanent quarantine zone or barrier was established in 1941 along a 500-mile front of the Rio Grande to prevent spread of the pests from Mexico.

Opening lead — six of spades.

Let's assume you're East and partner leads the six of spades, dummy following low. When you win with the ace and South produces the five, there arises the question of what to do next.

Before making a decision, you should first try to figure out how the spades are divided. This is not exactly a Herculean task, since the Rule of Eleven tells you that South has another spade higher than the six and common sense tells you that it must be the jack, ten or nine. It cannot be the king, for your partner would surely have led the jack from the J-10-9-6-3, not the six.

It is clear that you must play a club at trick two — before declarer can establish the queen of spades as a trick — and the only real problem is which club to lead.

If you return the four, South makes the contract by playing low from his hand. Note that declarer is similarly successful if you return the queen, which South wins with the ace. Only the ten return stops declarer. He must then lose two spades and two clubs, whatever he does, and go down one.

The ten play is easy enough to justify if you make the reasonable assumption that partner must have the king or ace of clubs for the contract to be defeated.

You lead the ten to trap declarer's assumed jack, and at the same time neutralize dummy's nine, which is surrounded by your Q-8.

If it turns out that declarer has the A-K-x of clubs your ploy will not succeed, but in that case nothing else would succeed either.

Low Calorie Drinks are Safe

Even in warm weather my hands become black and blue when I dip them in water. In cold weather it's worse. I've had it for a long time, but now it really worries me.

Mr. J.H. Okla.

Dear Mr. H.:

The first thought that occurs to me is that you may have one of the vascular disorders associated with spasms of the small arteries that go to the hands and feet.

Raynaud's disease is one of the conditions associated with vasospasm of the arteries.

Blanching and blueness of the skin, and numbness and tingling, are characteristic of this condition.

Tobacco may not necessarily be the cause for this constriction of the blood vessels; but certainly adds considerably to the problem. Nicotine constricts the blood vessels, and must be eliminated completely.

Numerous drugs and some surgical procedures are used for advanced cases of conditions similar to and related to Raynaud's.

When I read all the substances that are contained in low calorie drinks I wonder if any of them are dangerous.

Mrs. E.L. Penn.

Dear Mrs. L.:

You can be certain that the substances they contain and the amounts of these substances have passed the rigid inspection of the Food and Drug Administration.

All the contents are clearly stated on the label. Unless one is sensitive to one of them, I am sure there is no reason for concern.

Can a plastic surgeon accurately predict the exact shape of a nose after the operation? Our daughter would like to have the surgery, but is fearful of the result.

Mrs. H.R.R. Tenn.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Within limits it is possible to anticipate the new anatomical shape of the nose.

It is, however, impossible to predict the exact shape even when a sketch is prepared in advance.

Special problems during the surgery, unusual configuration of the nasal bones, particularly wide bulbous cartilages at the tip of the nose, and the healing capacity of the individual affect the final result.

Modern surgical techniques have improved thousands of noses, and made thousands of people happier.

MILBOURNE BARNEY

Demo party heads named

The Fayette County Democratic Central Committee has chosen Milbourne Barney to serve another 2-year term as chairman of the local Democratic party. He has served as the chairman for the past five years.

After choosing central committee officers, Francis E. Langen, chairman; William G. Ward, vice chairman; and Mrs. Hilda Yeazel, secretary-treasurer; the committee selected nine of the members to the executive committee.

They were Milbourne Barney, Mrs. Doris C. Bitzer, Herbert Deer, Leo B. Edwards, Mrs. Mary D. Jones, Richard Kimmet, Francis E. Langen, Raymond Loudner and Mrs. Lora Lou White.

From within their own ranks, the nine selected Barney to chair the party for another term.

After appointing another eight persons to the executive committee, the group elected the other top officers. They were Edwards, first vice chairman; Mrs. White, second vice chairman; Mrs. Louise M. Rodgers, secretary; and Mrs. Bitzer, treasurer.

Chillicothe post wins acquittal

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — American Legion Post 757 here was acquitted Wednesday of charges of operating an illegal gambling house.

A jury of four men and four women deliberated less than two hours to reach a verdict after the two-day trial.

State liquor control agents and Ross County sheriff's deputies raided the post March 28 and confiscated gambling equipment and allegedly pornographic films.

Defense attorneys argued that, under the new Ohio Revised Code, gambling is not illegal if the proceeds go to charity.

Post Commander Amos Ramsey had said proceeds from the stag dinner were to go to heart and cancer funds.

The post still faces possible revocation or suspension of its liquor license by the state Department of Liquor Control.

Committee race winner unchanged

The winner of the Union Township contest for a seat on Republican Central Committee lost two votes in the recount, exactly his margin of victory. However, he was not displaced because his opponent also lost one.

A narrow two-vote margin of victory for Richard W. Keiser dwindled even further when the Fayette County Board of Elections checked township ballots for accuracy, but it remained sufficient to seat Keiser on the committee.

Four await prison

Five found guilty in county court

Three Washington C.H. area residents found guilty in Common Pleas Court of multiple felonies are presently incarcerated in the Fayette County jail awaiting transfer to state penal institutions.

A Jeffersonville man who pleaded guilty to a single charge of receiving stolen property is also scheduled for transfer to a state institution, and a Milledgeville man has been placed on two-year probation.

Two men and a woman arrested by city police in connection with the May 5 mugging of a Washington C.H. man and with charges relating to a forged check were found guilty and sentenced by Judge Evelyn W. Coffman Wednesday.

Neil Gerring, 19, of Bloomingburg, and Emery M. Tackett, 18, of U.S. 62-S, received identical sentences on charges of robbery and grand theft. Each recieved a six-month to five-year sentence at Mansfield Reformatory on the theft count and five-year probation for robbery.

CONNI BEANE, 23, of U.S. 62-S, the third member of the trio had been charged with robbery, forgery and receiving stolen goods. She was sentenced to terms of six months to five years on each of the forgery and stolen property counts. She was also given five-year probation for her part in the robbery.

According to the police report, Miss Beane had lured a Washington C.H. man from the Emerald Inn by suggesting that they go to her apartment for coffee shortly after midnight.

The woman then led him through dimly lit areas of the Washington Junior High School grounds where Tackett and Gerring knocked him down and took his wallet.

The same trio was involved in the cashing of a forged check. Tackett and Gerring had stolen blank checks from an automobile and turned them over to Miss Beane. She then forged and cashed them.

A Jeffersonville resident, Dale E. Wilson, 33, pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property for which he was sentenced to a term of six months to five years in the Ohio Penitentiary at Lucasville. He had been arrested by Sheriff's deputies for receiving a television which had been stolen from an area resident.

Robert H. Glispie, 23, Milledgeville, was placed on probation after he pleaded guilty to the theft of copper telegraph cable from near the B&O railroad tracks near Milledgeville.

Assistant Fayette County Prosecutor John H. Roszmann presented the evidence for the state of Ohio in all five cases.

Patty Hearst faces life imprisonment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst faces the possibility of life in prison as she is hunted as kidnap suspect rather than kidnap victim.

In a further dramatic turnabout since her kidnaping by the Symbionese Liberation Army Feb. 4, Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch lodged 19 felony charges against her Wednesday.

"She faces life imprisonment," Busch said. "In our opinion, Miss Hearst was acting on her own free will," he said in outlining the charges, which included four counts of robbery, five of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder and two of kidnaping. They were filed against Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris.

Busch called again on the three to surrender, but expressed doubt that they would and said there would be "no deal." He said he believed it was the first time a kidnap victim had become a kidnap suspect.

Miss Hearst, 20-year-old coed and heiress to a publishing fortune, and the Harrises, a white couple who police say comprise the remnants of the SLA, were charged with 18 counts each. A 19th charge, of aiding and abetting assault, was filed against Miss Hearst, and it raised the possibility that police believe she may not be with the Harrises.

The assault charge accuses Miss Hearst of being with two black men who tried unsuccessfully to slash a Los Angeles landlady last Sunday when she denied the three a room. Some of the other alleged "sightings" of Miss Hearst have placed her with persons other than the Harrises, and an 18-year-old youth says he saw her leave a Los Angeles house last Thursday with two black men. It was that house where six SLA members died in a fiery shootout last Friday.

Meanwhile, in San Francisco, a grand jury prepared to hear testimony today about an SLA bank robbery there and the kidnaping of Miss Hearst. Witnesses were said to include Tom Dean Matthews; Patty's mother, Catherine; and Steven Weed, the 27-year-old tutor she fell in love with in high school and was to marry this summer.

Matthews, 18, reportedly told FBI agents that Miss Hearst said she fired 30 rifle shots during a getaway from a sporting goods store last week. He said she and the Harrises kidnaped him, and said Miss Hearst told him she had willingly taken part in the bank robbery and had joined the SLA of her own free will.

The search for the three fugitives continued to center on Los Angeles, but FBI agents declined to be specific about leads.

Appeals mounted for them to surrender.

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's refusal to comply with a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 11 Watergate tapes is providing new grounds for impeachment in the view of some members.

"It means the cover-up continues," said Rep. George Danielson, D-Calif., after Nixon notified the committee Wednesday he would not comply with the subpoena or any other it issues for Watergate material.

"It's hurting him with the committee," said Rep. Tom Railsback, R-Ill., one of a number of Republicans who expressed disappointment at Nixon's action.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., calling Nixon's refusal "a very grave matter," scheduled a committee meeting for next week to deal with it.

There was some talk of citing Nixon for contempt of Congress and of seeking court enforcement of the subpoena, but a majority appeared to favor taking the President's action into account when considering whether he should be impeached.

The committee staff has advised that it is proper to infer that anyone possessing and refusing to provide subpoenaed evidence is withholding material that could be incriminating.

In a letter to Rodino saying he would not produce the tapes, Nixon said the committee's request, and others it is getting ready to make, amount to "a massive invasion into the confidentiality of presidential conversations."

"More fundamentally, continuing ad infinitum the process of yielding up additional conversations in response to an endless series of demands would fatally weaken this office, not only in this administration but for future presidencies as well," Nixon added.

Rodino rejected Nixon's argument, saying the committee's requests were narrowly drawn and related specifically to the impeachment inquiry:

"There is no way the presidency will be weakened by the constitutional process we are conducting. The republic will be strengthened."

Rodino said the committee will issue more subpoenas if it decides the White House is withholding evidence it needs. The next one likely will deal with the dairy funds and ITT controversies.

The committee has requested tapes of 66 conversations in these two areas and Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, told it Wednesday it would get only one partial transcript.

The committee delved deeper into the crucial March 21, 1973, stage of the Watergate cover-up Wednesday, adding secret grand jury evidence to its tapes of Nixon's conversations dealing with hush money payments.

In a report accompanying indictments returned against seven former White House and Nixon re-election campaign aides March 1, the Watergate grand jury said a $75,000 payment was made to the lawyer for convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt Jr. the night of March 21.

In a taped conversation earlier that day, Nixon appeared to be ordering his former counsel, John W. Dean III, to make the payment.

There is some dispute as to whether the $75,000 actually was paid that night, but several committee members said the evidence presented Wednesday made it clear that it was.

The committee also heard a tape of a March 22 conversation in which Nixon, Dean, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman discussed various means of

Nixon-Jaworski feud continues

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon always has had trouble getting along with Watergate special prosecutors.

He didn't want one hired in the first place, yielding reluctantly after the scandals forced a staff and Cabinet shakeup.

Now the White House is feuding with Leon Jaworski over who is boss.

During the House impeachment inquiry the President cannot afford any renewal of the crisis that came when Cox went.

Nixon's spokesmen and lawyer say there has been no consideration of firing Jaworski, although circumstances now are similar to those that led the President to get rid of Cox.

The central issue now, as then, is simple: Can the special prosecutor take the President to court when the President tells him not to?

In each case, the controversy flared over the demands of the prosecutor for access to White House tape recordings the President said he would not yield.

Cox was fired after vowing to press in court for recordings of nine presidential conversations, in defiance of Nixon's instructions to drop the case and settle instead for summaries for the tapes.

But three days later, on Oct. 23, 1973, facing a wave of impeachment demands and an adverse public reaction, the President yielded and agreed to turn over the tapes.

Within a week, arrangements had been made for a new special prosecutor.

Now, up against another tapes controversy with Jaworski, Nixon's lawyers say he is prepared to contest to the Supreme Court a subpoena for recordings of 64 conversations. Jaworski already has won in U.S. District Court.

Jaworski complained there, and to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which backed him, about the contention of the White House that he could not properly pursue the subpoena case in court because it involves a dispute between two officials of the executive branch.

Jaworski said that interpretation of his standing would make a farce out of the special prosecutor's office.

Funeral services slated Friday for R-H editor

A 43-year career as a newspaperman came to an end suddenly for Robert S. Rochester, editor of the Record-Herald for 18 years, at 1:34 p.m. Wednesday in the emergency room of Fayette Memorial Hospital of a severe heart attack; "thirty" will be written on the story of his life at 1 p.m. Friday in the Roberts Funeral Home in his native Logan by the Rev. Robert Hadley, followed by burial in the family plot in Oak Grove Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday. He was 65.

Bob Rochester started what turned out to be a newspaper career as a reporter as a high school boy for the Logan High School football, basketball and baseball teams.

WITH THAT interest in young people, he decided to become a teacher after his graduation in 1926 from Logan High School. He entered Ohio State University, where he played clarinet in the marching band before it became an all brass organization. He then completed his education at Ohio University in nearby Athens where he received his degree in English.

He was on the verge of becoming a professional musician while at Ohio State University when he first joined a small dance band which was playing at Valley Dale to help pay for his college education. He later played clarinet and saxophone with several big name bands of that day, including the Sammy Kaye Band.

But the printer's ink that got in his blood during his high school days was too strong and in 1931 returned to his hometown as editor of the Logan Daily News. Thirteen years later, in 1944, he went to St. Petersburg, Fla., where he advanced to managing editor of the Evening Independent before he resigned to return to Ohio in 1946 to join the staff of the Lima News and became its managing editor in 1954. When the Lima News was sold by the Galvin interests, he came to The Record-Herald, another of the Galvin newspapers as the editor in 1956.

A dedication to excellence and a commitment to his fellow man are among the finest attributes a man can seek.

Robert S. Rochester had these in full measure, with a lifetime dedicated to his chosen profession of journalism, and to the betterment of his community and those who live in it.

Bob's wise guidance and ready wit were hallmarks that left a deep imprint on his colleagues, both on The Record-Herald staff and at those newspapers where he toiled for much of his life.

Accuracy and fairness were more than mere words to Bob, they were a credo and a solemn commitment not to be taken lightly. His reputation and that of his newspaper hinged on those two words.

A man of charm and ready humor, he brightened the day for those around him with his pointed and apt observations.

Bob was proud of Washington C. H., and of the newspaper's role as reporter of those daily events which are the lifeblood of his city.

His sudden passing Wednesday leaves a void which will be hard to fill, both in the community and in the lives of those who knew him.

The Washington C. H. community has lost not only a good newspaperman, but a dear friend.

Council pays tribute to Robert Rochester

City Council members Wednesday night paid tribute to the late Robert S. Rochester, editor of The Record-Herald, who died suddenly earlier in the day at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Rochester was termed as "an outstanding community leader who never feared to take a stand for what he believed in" by City Council chairman John E. Rhoads.

The invocation, delivered by the Rev. Gerald Wheat before the opening of the meeting, was dedicated in memory to Mr. Rochester.

WASHINGTON (AP) — New subpoenas for Watergate evidence have been fired at the White House, this time by two former members of President Nixon's inner circle.

The subpoenas were signed by U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell at the request of lawyers for John D. Ehrlichman, formerly Nixon's chief domestic adviser, and Charles W. Colson, ex-presidential counselor.

Gesell gave the White House until 2 p.m. Friday to respond and said he would grant no more time.

He added that the case might have to be dismissed if the government refuses to turn over evidence deemed necessary for the trial.

"If the court rules that material is relevant to the defense of anyone charged" in the case and are not produced, "the prosecution ends," Gesell said.

The subpoenas include a demand for top secret documents connected with the 1971 Pentagon papers case. They also ask for personal papers left at the White House by Colson and Ehrlichman.

The latest subpoenas were issued in connection with the plumbers case, scheduled for trial in Gesell's court Sept. 9.

Ehrlichman, Colson and three other defendants are charged in the break-in at the California offices of Dr. Lewis Fielding, psychiatrist of Daniel Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon papers on U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Among the subpoenaed papers was a damage assessment submitted under seal to the Supreme Court in the Pentagon papers case. Top secret portions of these files have never been publicly disclosed.

Earlier Wednesday, Gesell had said he would not allow the government to withhold material from the trial on a claim of executive privilege.

The White House has retained some of the papers of staffers who left during the Watergate controversy and referred to them as presidential papers.

Ehrlichman and Colson had complained that preparation of their defense was hindered by the fact that access to their papers still at the White House was limited.

"I don't recognize any executive privilege," Gesell said in a hearing on pretrial motions in the case. If anything is relevant and material, it is going to be produced by the United States.

"There is not going to be executive privilege or national security," the judge said. "We must proceed with what is relevant in this case. I am not going to start having a secret trial of public matters."

Nixon has under appeal an order that he turn over tapes subpoenaed by the Watergate special prosecutor's office for the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to start in another court here Sept. 9.

The subpoena signed at Ehrlichman's request Wednesday asks for his personal papers from January 1971 through April 30, 1973, the date he resigned from the White House staff in the heat of rising Watergate scandals.

A separate subpoena requested by Colson asks for his handwritten notes covering conversations he had with Nixon June 14, 1971, and Sept. 15, 1971. The Fielding break-in occurred Sept. 4, 1971.

Big utilities face severe money pinch

NEW YORK (AP) — Faced with rapidly increased costs for fuel and a continuing need for money to expand, some of the nation's major electric utilities have run into a serious lack of funds.

The weak financial position some face was dramatized recently when Consolidated Edison, New York City's power supplier, omitted its regular 45-cent quarterly dividend. Con Ed said it needed cash for escalating operating expenses and heavy capital spending this year, and so did not pay the normally guaranteed dividend which is the major attraction for buying utility stocks.

The incident, and fears of others like it, quickly focused attention on the industry's ailing finances. Stock prices and credit ratings plunged.

Unless the securities market for utility issues quickly improves, the worst trouble may lie ahead, analysts say. And ultimately the consumer may have to pay even higher electric bills, or face potential brownouts.

The Dow-Jones average of 15 of the nation's largest publicly-held power companies has declined nearly 30 per cent since January, to its lowest point in 15 years.

Energy problems and inflation triggered the utilities' crisis.

Ohio Senate eyes end to sovereign immunity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators turn their attention today to a bill that would make Ohio subject to lawsuits, taking away a time worn immunity that dates back to the crowned heads of old Europe.

Up for a vote is a House-passed proposal that would do away with the slow and unwieldy Sundry Claims Board and establish a State Court of Claims to hear suits against the state which presently cannot be sued.

Advocates of the legislation, of which Rep. Robert A. Nader, D-55 Warren, is the chief sponsor, say it will bring justice faster to those injured through the state's negligence.

Under the present system, such victims must file claims with the layman-oriented claims boards which makes recommendations to the legislature for final approval. The envisioned new court of judges would operate outside legislative scrutiny, as other existing courts do.

"This bill would end the notion that the king can do no wrong, and therefore can't be sued," said Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, a co-sponsor.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, says he sees "little chance" that the House will reconsider it's Wednesday decision to kill an omnibus bill that would have created more than three dozen new judgeships throughout the state.

Riffe was instrumental in getting approval of a floor amendment that saved about 500 mayors' courts in Ohio. They would have been abolished by the bill as it went to its hostile reception on the floor.

But after deletion of that controversial proposal—by a vote of 57-35—the House rejected the entire package. The vote on the bill itself was 52-38 with 66—or a two-thirds majority—required for legislation that creates new courts.

The long-debated bill would have established new municipal courts in Wadsworth and New Philadelphia and added from 38 to 43 new judges elsewhere, at various stages of committee and floor deliberations.

Riffe said, and Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg added his agreement, that most of the members simply didn't like the idea of linking new judgeships with the mayors' courts proposal which has been killed at every session for the past 10 years.

Riffe was one of the most outspoken opponents of those seeking to abolish mayors courts, maintaining that in his own county of Scioto and elsewhere, the existing municipal courts would be unable to handle the mayors' caseloads.

Rep. Richard Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, said mayors' courts last year in Hamilton County handled 105,000 cases that otherwise would have gone to the municipal courts.

Finan offered a compromise amendment that would have retained mayors' courts but permitted municipal judges to assign referees to hear their cases. On a motion by Riffe, his amendment was tabled by a vote of 62-28.

In other developments, Robert Tenenbaum, Gov. John J. Gilligan's press secretary, said the governor is expected to sign into law a bill that restores Ohio's regulation and control of abortions.

The House concurred 65-31 Wednesday in Senate amendments to the bill allowing abortions but spelling out responsibilities of physicians, to whom the operations would be restricted. Some lawmakers predicted at least part of it will fail to meet constitutional tests, namely one provision that outlaws the use of public funds to pay for an abortion.

Ohio's old law prohibiting abortions, except in cases where the life of the mother was threatened, was struck down by a decision of the U.S. Supreme Court 17 months ago. Ohio has had no law since, and sponsors of the new law talents, he was a shirtsleeve-type of newspaperman, dedicated and devoted to his profession. A perfectionist, his credo in reporting and editing was truth and accuracy, even to the last detail. Although he never put his studies in English to use as a teacher, he was a stickler for grammar and sentence and paragraph construction, comas and periods. It hurt him to print a story that might hurt someone, but he refused to let his personal feelings deter him from what he thought to be essential recording events of the day, fully and accurately. He had very definite opinons and convictions, but maintained they had no place in news reporting; these were for editorals.

Although the newspaper was his life, he had other interests to which he devoted much time and research. A student of the Civil War (and he was considered somewhat of an authority on the subject), he had accumulated an extensive library on the Civil War; he and his wife, Ruby Nelle, made many trips to the battlefields, not just as mere tourists for a superficial look, but to study them intimately.

He also was a stamp collector as a sideline hobby, and a railroad buff, both of which gradually added to his accumulation of books. As the books — of all subjects — piled up, this developed into almost a business in buying and selling books.

He often said he was looking forward to becoming a "book dealer" after his retirement, after his 66th birthday on May 30 of this year. He said he did not expect this to be a "big money-making business' but rather a hobby which he enjoyed.

He was a long-time member of Sigma Delta Chi, a national society of journalists, both student and professional. He was a member of the Elks Lodge and Rotary Club in Lima, but gave them up soon after coming to Washington C.H. because he felt he did not have the time to take an active part in their affairs. However, he did retain his membership in the Presbyterian Church, which he transferred to the First Presbyterian Church when he came here.

HE IS survived by his wfie, Ruby Nelle Dollison Rochester, 634 Albin Ave., and several cousins. He was the son of John and Jennie Rochester, of Logan.

Anticipating retirement, Mr. Rochester had been grooming Mike Flynn to take over his desk. He came to The Record-Herald as the sports editor soon after his graduation from McClain High School in Greenfield and about a year ago advanced to city editor.

Brown ends election probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Accusations of unethical campaign tactics in John Glenn's primary campaign victory over U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, are soon to be in the hands of Ohio's attorney general.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Wednesday he will forward transcripts of two hearings in the case to the attorney general, along with recommendations on points that need further investigation. A spokesman for the attorney general's office said it will be several weeks before a decision is made about possible filing of charges.

Wednesday's five-hour hearing again saw conflicting stories regarding the origin of bumper stickers reading "Metzenbaum-Nixon, Tax Consultants" and a letter linking Metzenbaum to Red front groups.

Testimony also revealed infighting among Glenn's volunteers in Mahoning County and his salaried state staff.

Charges of unethical campaign tactics were raised when Hanni, Glenn's Youngstown coordinator, resigned April 20.

Eight witnesses Wednesday supported Vigorito's earlier testimony that he had not visited Youngstown at all April 12.

One was Douglass Riggs of Waverly who said he'd attended a party that evening with Vigorito in Columbus.

Two other Mahoning County workers later testified, however, that they had seen Vigorito deliver the bumper stickers. Neither could supply an exact date.

Vigorito has denied any knowledge of the materials.

The day's last witness, Frank Gaetano, a Youngstown University student who worked for Glenn, testified that Vigorito had confessed to him, in a telephone call, that he had brought "about 25" of the questionable bumper stickers to Youngstown.

Gaetano said he called Vigorito after the incident appeared in newspapers following the resignations of Hanni and another worker, George Skaljac, from the Glenn campaign.

"I thought they ought to be aware of all the facts in order to formulate a strategy in case Gary were found guilty, they'd want to play down the political impact," Gaetano said.

James Farmakis, another Youngstown volunteer, testified he saw Vigorito deliver a box of the bumper stickers to the headquarters in the trunk of his car.

An extended forecast gives the probability of generally fair weather in Ohio for Saturday and Sunday, but meanwhile a high pressure area in the west will be moving in to bring partly cloudy skies to the state.

Temperatures for the coming holiday weekend are expected to be a little below normal. Afternoon readings Friday and Saturday are forecast in the 60s or low 70s.

For tonight, temperatures will be a little lower than Wednesday night, with readings in the 40s and low 50s.

Rain tapered off in the state from the northwest Wednesday night following a cold front that moved eastward into the northwestern section of the state. The front is forecast to move beyond Ohio late today.

The heaviest amount of rain in Ohio Wednesday and Wednesday night were in the eastern sections. Columbus, Cleveland and Akron had around a half inch of rain. Mansfield and Youngstown reported over three-quarters of an inch.

claim "abortion mills" are operating at will throughout the state.

In other action, the House defeated a motion to reconsider a previously-beaten bill that would have outlawed "Saturday night special" handguns, apparently putting it to rest for the current session.

Sponsoring Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, was able to muster only a 39-50 vote to reconsider the bill which went down in the House April 3 by a 45-51 tally. Noting he had "lost votes", Galbraith commented "that's it for this session."

The bill would have prohibited sale or manufacture of cheap weapons that have less than three-inch barrels, melt at 800 degrees Fahrenheit, and generally are priced in the $20 to $25 range.

Also defeated by the House during its prolonged floor session was a proposal designed to streamline Ohio corporation laws. It assertedly would make the state competitive with states such as Delaware in attracting corporate charters and related business activity.

The House rejected it 43-49 after claims it represented an effort to "entrench" existing corporate management while taking away the already limited rights of shareholders.

dealing with the upcoming Senate Watergate hearings.

The Boston Globe reported today it had learned from a source who had heard the White House tape that during the March 22 conversation, Nixon said: "Even up to this point, the whole theory has been containment, as you know, John."

Nixon has said he did not learn of any Watergate coverup until March 21, 1973.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., said she found the tape "very significant," but did not go into detail. Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., said "the whole tone of the conversation showed they were determined not to let it (the cover-up of White House involvement in Watergate) get out."

Carpooling works for air base

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — One out of every five employes at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near here rides to work in a carpool, base officials reported today.

That's 5,440 carpoolers out of a workforce of 26,342, a report showed.

These figures are expected to increase as soon as the base's computer matching program for carpooling goes into effect, said Col. Basil Manly III, energy task force chief.

resurfacing program received a crushing blow when it was learned recently that the Ohio Department of Transportation has apparently considered withdrawing its proposal for resurfacing Fayette Street and Clinton Avenue, plus a number of other city thoroughfares under the recently-completed U.S. 35 bypass project . . .

Councilman Ralph Cook mentioned that the new Dayton Avenue railroad crossing which was installed Wednesday by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co., work crews needs to be lowered. . . It was pointed out that the tracks were raised slightly when installed because the railroad company had anticipated the resurfacing of Dayton Avenue under the U.S. 35 bypass project. . .

It appears that there's a strong possibility a traffic light at the intersection of Cedar and Elm streets will be relocated following discussion by Council . . . Councilman Joseph O'Brien said he had received a request that the traffic signal be hooded during the summer months when students were not attending classes at Eastside Elementary School. . .City Manager Dan Wolford said he felt the light is not serving its intended purpose and Council should study the possibility of relocating the signal so that it is situated closer to the Columbus Avenue intersection. . .Police Chief Rodman Scott said new businesses in that particular vicinity are generating increased traffic flow, especially in the evenings and on weekends. . .He said a hooded traffic signal would serve no purpose. . .

At least two items of legislation could appear on Council's agenda in two weeks . . . O'Brien requested an ordinance requiring gasoline stations to post gas prices so that they could be seen by motorists . . . City Solicitor Gary Smith had checked into the proposal and discovered it would be legal . . . Councilman Donald E. Wood asked for legislation at the next meeting pertaining to erecting 20 mile per hour and no parking signs on Millikan Avenue in the vicinity of Eyman Park . . . Police Chief Scott said the area definitely needs signs for improved safety. . .

In other street-related discussion, Council member Mrs. Bertha MCullough said that the city's legislators should consider placing a one-way sign at the entrance of an alley next to the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. . . She requested that one-way traffic be required in the alley from E. Court Street to Market Street because of increased acticity created by the construction of the new Federal Land Bank Association office building . . . Chairman John E. Rhoads requested that the city street department check a large hole on E. Paint Street between Delaware and Forest streets and also look into sweeping Draper Street where construction of the new Krogrer Co. building has created a messy situation . . .

Councilman Hugh S. Patton publicly apologized to members of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners and the Fayette County Planning Commission for being prematurely critical of no response to a request he issued for the groups to meet with City Council in an attempt to arrive at a compatible set of subdivision regulations. . . Patton said a misunderstanding led him to believe that the two groups had received correspondance from Council before a public hearing on the new standards.

Orville Dixon, superintendent of the city's sewage treatment plant, said the plant employes are investigating unpleasant odors which recently bothered some Washington C.H. residents . . .He said new facilities at the plant were recently placed in operation and the new sludge equipment is designed to prevent pollution of Paint Creek . . . He also said a new lagoon is being constructed behind the plant . . .

Parking meter conversion in downtown Washington C.H. has been completed, according to Wolford and workmen are now in the process of applying decals to the meters to assist motorists in locating specific hour meters . . .

The city is continuing its investigation into apparent pigeon problems in the downtown area . . . The suggestion to find a remedy for the situation was raised by Wilson at the last meeting . . .

Wolford complimented the Neighborhood Youth Corps program, which is administered under the Fayette County Community Action Commission . . . The city had nine employes this winter under the program, in which the federal government provides funds to pay wages of the workers . . .

The quarterly financial report was distributed to Council members for review . . . Wolford said there were some typographical errors in the report but all balances were correct. . .

Council granted Wolford permission to advertise for bids for new street signs in order to compare prices with signs from the penal and private industries. . .

Wilson suggested that the city consider installing street lamps similar to the one recently erected on Columbus Avenue at the entrance to the Storybrook Addition at all entrances to Washington C.H. . .

Stock list proves weak

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was generally weak today, despite some scattered bargain hunting in bluechip issues.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .86 at 803.43, reflecting gains in some of the big-name stocks. But declines outnumbered advances by about 7 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Technical analysts said many investors were waiting to see whether the momentum from the market's recent declines would carry the Dow below the psychologically important 800 level.

The NYSE's noon composite index of some 1,500 common stocks stood at 45.82, down .09.

Thai premier to come back

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's National Assembly nominated Sanya Thammasak today as the country's new premier, urging him to return to the post from which he resigned two days ago.

Under the Thai constitution, a decision on a new premier will be made by King Bhumipol Adulyadej, but it was thought likely that the king, a long-time associate and personal friend of Sanya, would follow the assembly's recommendation and urge Sanya to form a new government.

Assembly Speaker M.R. Kukrit Pramoj, who had been mentioned as a candidate for the premiership, told newsmen that Sanya was the only seriously debated candidate in a two-hour closed assembly session.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Tootlers' Union Strikes Webs," says the headline in Variety, the show biz bible. Translated, it means the American Federation of Musicians is in a contract dispute with CBS, NBC and ABC.

The tootlers, says an AFM spokesman, have been "withholding their services" from the three networks and some production companies since April 30, when the union's two-year pacts with the firms expired.

As millions of "Tonight" show viewers know, it's the reason Johnny Carson hasn't been kidding the boys in the band of late.

They aren't there, but neither are they and their colleagues out picketing in the first AFM strike against the networks since 1968. No strike lines have been set up.

The reason, says the AFM spokesman, is that "we're only withholding services for people who do not sign the new contract.

"Now, if an independent producer signs the contract and does his show at a network facility—it happens all the time— we're not going to put up a picket line to keep that guy out of there.

"We want him to use our people under our contracts. We can't put up a picket line only to take it down when he goes in, then put it back up when he leaves. That's ridiculous."

An end to the 24-day-old dispute with the networks isn't in sight, he says. He said joint talks with them broke off shortly before the strike began, none have been held since and none are scheduled.

Spokesmen for the networks declined to comment on what AFM says are the key issues in the dispute — a ban on so-called "runaway" overseas recording for certain network shows and "equal pay" provisions.

Regarding the first, the AFM spokesman said the union wants all original scores for domestic shows the networks own or control recorded in either the United States or Canada by the union's members.

However, he said he had no figures on hand to show how much of that recording now is done overseas and whether it has significantly increased in recent years.

The second demand, he said, would require the networks to pay as much as outside producers for musicians' overtime, holiday work, labors on daily shows and for those called on to "double," or play more than one instrument during a show.

The spokesman declined to say how much this would be, but said the networks were given more favorable rates than outside producers during the era of network "house bands," staff musicians who were paid each week whether they played or not.

But under the last contract, all network music staffs were phased out as of Jan. 31. And, the AFM official says, "we take the position the networks should meet the same conditions" as outside producers.

Dirty air statistics prove grim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Grim statistics relating to the uncontrolled use of high-sulfur coal in industry and power plants have been reported to the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as it studies new air quality standards.

Dr. John Finklea, research center director for the federal EPA, said the junking of national clean air standards could result in 100-250 more deaths a year, more illness among youngsters and severe health problems for older persons.

Although the Ohio EPA has adopted sulfur dioxide limits more strict than federal standards, it is trying to determine what modifications may be needed for the Ohio power industry because of its reliance on high-sulfur coal as a basic fuel to generate electricity.

Finklea said federal studies indicate uncontrolled sulfur dioxide pollution in Ohio could result in:

—Between 250,000 and 400,000 additional "asthmatic episodes" each year, or about two or three additional attacks per asthmatic.

—Acute difficulties during 68 days of the year for older Ohioans with heart or lung diseases.

—An additional 150,000 to 300,000 cases of acute lower respiratory diseases in children ages 12 and under, an increase of about one severe illness each year for every fourth child.

—Symptoms of chronic lung disease developing in an estimated 40,000 to 60,000 Ohioans after several years of uncontrolled sulfate pollution.

Finklea told the EPA the statistics "are not estimates given to you as precise figures, but to give you the magnitude of the health problems with which you are dealing."

Ohio ranks lowest in terms of tax burden placed on industry and per capita taxes paid by individuals compared with 31 major industrial states, according to an independent study conducted for the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

Limits on hot pursuit

A persistent question about law enforcement practices is raised again by a tragic episode in Los Angeles. The question is: At what point should the police abandon hot pursuit in a heavily populated area?

The incident cited had to do with a 100-mile-an-hour police chase of youthful drag racers through residential streets. At one point a police car engaged in pursuit smashed into a wholly uninvolved car and killed a nine-year-old boy. A short time later other patrol cars caught up with one of the drag racers; the other escaped.

Was it worth it? Is a boy's life a fair exchange for the capture of a drag racer? On the face of it, the answer is clearly in the negative; no one could reasonably argue that bringing a speedster to book, however great his potential for harm to others may have been, outweighed a human life.

The difficulty, of course, is that the police have no means of knowing when hot pursuit may bring such a tragedy. There is always a chance, but law enforcement would be seriously crippled if the police could act only when there was clearly no danger of harm to innocent bystanders.

It is essentially a question depending on circumstances in a given case. One always comes back to that. It is a matter of weighing risks to the innocent against the potential harm of letting suspects escape. The answer to the problem may lie in stricter guidelines for police. That might somewhat lessen the danger of harm to the innocent.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

A futile, dangerous program

WASHINGTON — If any proof were needed, we have seen once again the tragedy of three million Israelis surrounded by a sea of Arab primitivism. Reprisals, no matter how far they go, cannot stamp out the fanatical blood hatreds of the Palestinian terrorists. Even as Israeli planes strike refugee camps in Lebanon, the horror of another Maalot is all but a certainty.

The limitations of American policy are again painfully evident. This is not to say a word in derogation of the efforts of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. His attempt to disengage the Israeli-Syrian forces is diplomacy of patience and persistence of the highest order. But it is the policy of counting on merely a continuing flow of more arms, a policy grounded largely in Congress, that is in the long run futile. It opens the way to the kind of domestic politicking that is Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson's claim to the allegiance of the most influential Jewish groups.

THE SOVIETS are sending arms into the Middle East to match the American shipments. The danger is of a greatly enlarged war. That danger is very real at the moment in the aftermath of Maalot and the reprisal raids.

Reports out of Moscow say that the Soviets have agreed to supply Libya with advanced arms. This coincides with the visit of Libyan Prime Minister Abdel Salaam Jallud. As a sign of the importance attached to his visit, Jallud was met at the airport by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

To put advanced weapons in the hands of the Libyan dictator, Mummar Khadafi, is the height of recklessness. Khadafi is bent on preventing any peaceful settlement in the Middle East. Out of his oil revenue of more than $1 billion a year from Western Europe, he is reported to be financing the more extremist Palestinian groups.

The reprisal raids have put President Anwar Sadat of Egypt as an ally of Kissinger in a different if not dangerous position. Isolation in the Arab world aroused to new fanaticism could put an end to his support of the American peace effort if not indeed an end to Sadat. Khadafi was reportedly the trigger man behind a recent attempt to assassinate the Egyptian president.

In the past, there has been discussion of an American guarantee of Israel in the event of an attack. Such a proposal came from Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The guarantee would be part of a general settlement that would be underwritten in the U.N. Security Council.

FULBRIGHT is poison to the Zionists who fault him for opposing continuing arms shipments. They also took a dim view of the "even-handed" policy of Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Kissinger's predecessor. The Rogers Plan called for only modifications in a return to the borders before the 1967 war.

Kissinger has at least flirted with the idea of a military guarantee for Israel along the lines of the Fulbright proposal. The two have had a close working relationship.

But the threat of a holocaust in the Middle East cannot be ignored. Two Arab states are said to possess missiles with a range of a hundred miles — in easy reach of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Israel, too, is widely believed to have a nuclear weapon. Here is a prescription for Armageddon that is unlikely to be confined to the Middle East. Appeals to reason, to humanity, are of no avail. The madmen capable of Maalot and the atrocities that have preceded it are beyond such appeals. As they have shown, they are quite capable of destroying themselves if they can wipe out any hope of stability and peace that includes the state of Israel.

The refugee camps in Lebanon are festering sores policed by the Fedayeen and therefore centers of Palestinian radicalism.

But they also contain women and children who have committed no other crime than to have been born in an alien environment and subject to the incessant propaganda about their rights to return to their homeland of Palestine. If another Maalot is almost certain, so are other reprisal raids and the ghastly cycle has no end.

Some planetary restrictions. Be cautious in making investments, and DO control emotions. Some situations will call for unusual tact.

PISCES

"HOW DO YOU LIKE THE SMALLER, MORE ECONOMICAL CARS SO FAR?"

Volunteers still like president

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost every weekday for four years, Rae Zeeman has worked without pay at the White House, addressing envelopes, answering the telephone and clipping newspapers.

Mrs. Zeeman is a White House volunteer, one of 250 women who regularly give up a day or two a week to work for President Nixon. Volunteering every day, as Mrs. Zeeman does, is the exception. On an average day, she has 12 to 15 assistants.

Despite the President's Watergate troubles, Mrs. Zeeman says her loyalty hasn't wavered.

"I believe in him," she said. "I've read the transcripts, and I fully believe he's done nothing impeachable. A few things he didn't speak of soon enough.... But I'm just as much for him now as I was in the 1948 (Senate) campaign and when he ran with Eisenhower in 1952."

Mrs. Warren Cannon of Bethesda, Md., said she often works two days a week at the White House "because I'm a registered Republican, and I like President Nixon and his policies. I wouldn't miss a day coming in."

It's hardly the glamorous offices that attract volunteers, mostly housewives from the Washington area. Many of them work in a cramped, windowless office in the attic of the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House.

The woman in charge of the volunteers is Anne Higgins, a 34-year-old New Yorker who said she has worked for Nixon since taking a secretarial job with his New York law firm nine years ago.

"No matter what the attitude of people calling, it's important to me that there be someone responsive here to listen," she said.

Mrs. Higgins, who says her husband converted her from being a registered Democrat to a Republican after she supported President John F. Kennedy, said the volume of letters and phone calls is heaviest after a presidential speech, a press conference or an important news event.

She said the White House received 7,000 letters about Nixon's April 29 speech, in which he announced he would make public the edited transcripts of his Watergate conversations.

And, in the two-week period ending May 7, the White House received 4,500 letters supporting the President but not mentioning the speech and 500 expressing dissatisfaction, she said.

Mrs. Higgins said she knows of no White House volunteers who have quit because they became disillusioned with the President over the Watergate scandal.

"The only thing they say is they're fighting for the President," she said. "They're working harder than ever."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Is granddaughter heading for trouble?

DEAR ABBY: Maybe this is none of my business but I'm worried about my 14-year-old granddaughter. She's a beautiful child and very mature for her age. That's the trouble I'm afraid. She's growing up too fast for her own good.

She turned 14 last Christmas and her boyfriend (he is 21) gave her a suede coat trimmed with real fur. He also gave her suede boots and a purse to match. That's not all. He gave her a portable TV and stereo set with maybe two dozen albums, plus a ten pound box of candy.

I don't think that a girl that age should be allowed to accept such expensive presents from a man, do you? The girl's father (my son) wasn't too pleased, but the mother thought it was just wonderful, and she even bragged to all her friends about it.

I can't talk to my daughterin-law because she thinks I'm an old fogy, but I'd like to know what you think about this. I'm so afraid that the child is headed for trouble. What can I do?
GRAM

DEAR GRAM: Nothing, unfortunately, since her mother thinks it's "wonderful." Let's hope your granddaughter doesn't have any rough sledding before she finds out there isn't any Santa Claus.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a senior in high school. Lots of the kids at this school get drunk, smoke grass and have sex. They think it's cool.

I don't do any of these things and they call me a square. It's not that I'm better than the others; I just don't want to participate in unlawful or immoral activities. Are there many other kids who don't follow the crowd and try to be cool?
LONER AT S.H.S.

DEAR LONER: Plenty. Those "cool" characters usually end up in hot water up to their necks. In your case, square is smart.

DEAR ABBY: So many older people grumble about how "neglected they are. I wonder if it ever occured to them that if they made an effort to be in good company, they might attract more people. I realize that nobody can be cheerful all the time, but people who talk of nothing but illness, death, hardships present and past, will find that even close relatives give up, and pay only an occasinonal "duty" visit, and never stay any longer than they have to.

Take my mother; My husband and I drove 300 miles to take her out to dinner on Mother's Day. My husband has a wonderful sense of humor and he tried so hard to entertain her, but he couldn't get her to brighten up no matter how hard he tried.

She spent the whole time talking about illness, and death, and everybody's bad luck, and all the depressing subjects in the world.

We could have spent much more time with her, but four hours of her company put us both so down in the dumps we couldn't wait to leave. I was depressed for two days afterwards.

Abby, she's much better off than many others, but she complains constantly, throwing digs about how nobody ever comes to see her. I wish she realized that not ALL older people are avoided. Only the crepe-hangers. Please print this. She may get the hint.
HAD IT WITH MOM

DEAR HAD IT: Don't bet the rent. If she sees it at all, she'll probably apply it to some of her friends.

Newlyweds may someday have 'new generation' home

NEW YORK — Young newlyweds concerned about their environment will be happy to know that they one day may have a home built, in part, with a new generation of construction materials containing recycled glass from used jars and bottles.

The Glass Container Manufacturers Institute currently is investigating a process for making bricks from reclaimed bottle glass. The bricks are made to such exact dimensions that they can be glued effectively instead of being set in mortar.

Tomorrow's home also may contain glass wool insulation made by salvaged bottles. The attractiveness of the den, library and living room may be enhanced by decorative wall and ceiling panels made in part from finely crushed glass containers.

The bathroom floors may be covered with a new kind of terrazzo tile containing bits and pieces of multi-colored bottle glass instead of marble chips. It weighs less per square foot than conventional ceramic tile, and can be laid more quickly.

A West Coast university is experimenting with synthethetic "lumber" consisting of 90 to 95 per cent reclaimed bottle glass and 5 to 10 per cent powered, dehydrated cow manure. The material is odorless and sanitary. It can be formed into planks and panels and can be sawed and nailed like wood.

Outside tomorrow's house the driveway may be paved with glasphalt, an experimental new blacktop material containing crushed glass aggregate instead of limestone. Millions of old jars and bottles have been recycled into glasphalt and applied in almost 20 cities in the U.S. and Canada.

Crushed glass used as mulch in flower beds around the house will contribute to the healthy growth of plants and shrubs.

Bricks, building blocks, wall panels, insulation, terrazzo tile and other construction materials made from salvaged glass already have been made under laboratory conditions, according to glass industry spokesmen.

Members attend Convention

The Betra Sigma Phi State Convention was held May 17-19 at the Sheraton Motor Hotel in Columbus. Mrs. Rick Kelley, Mrs. Jim Coldiron, Mrs. Dale Lowe and Mrs. Jud Thompson of Zeta Upsilon Chapter were among the 950 Ohio women who attended the gathering. The theme of the weekend was "The Real Thing - Nostalgia," and the decorations and entertainment for the entire convention followed those lines.

Dinner and entertainment on Friday evening took place in a speakeasy of the 1920's.

Forums and discussions on Saturday were followed by a luncheon at which the theme was "It Started With Eve." The luncheon entertainment was a fashion show which followed women and fashion from the Garden of Eden to modern times.

For Saturday evening, the ballroom was converted into the Delta Queen, and the women were entertained by the Sweet Adelines, an award-winning women's barbershop chorus from Columbus. The dinner was followed by a formal dance.

The theme, "Women For All Seasons," was used for the Sunday Brunch and the convention concluded with a candlelight closing ritual.

The 1974 Ohio Beta Sigma Phi Convention will be held in Toledo May 16-18.

Variety of matters handled by Council

Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night handled a number of miscellaneous items, including the payment of nearly $21,000 for services rendered by an engineering firm and for an amount due to the state police and fireman's disability pension fund. No legislation appeared on Council's agenda.

Council members approved a total payment of $12,694.50 to C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., of Columbus, for engineering services rendered to the city for the competion of ordinance and facility studies.

City manager Dan Wolford said the amount due the consulting engineering firm will be paid from a $100,000 note the city signed in order to comply with Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulations for improvement at the sewage treatment plant.

The city will be reimbursed for 75 per cent of the payments for all the services when federal grants for the sewage treatment plant project are received, Wolford noted.

THE PAYMENTS included sewer rate ordinance, $4,230; waste water sludge facilities, $810; waste water project changes required by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, $2,040; preparation of sanitary sewer master plan, $2,879.75, and storm sewer master plan, $2,734.75.

Council also approved the first voluntary payment to the state police and firemen's pension fund. The payment is required after the city learned earlier this year that it had lost a court contest involving the payment of the money.

The amount due was $7,201 and Wolford pointed out that Council will be forced to search for other means of retiring the large debt. The authorization for payment was approved by a 6-1 vote with Councilman Ralph Cook objecting.

In other matters, Council received notice of application for two liquor permits in Washington C.H.

Helfrich Super Market, Inc., 806 Delaware St., has applied for a C-2 carryout permit and Arthur E. Pavey, doing business as Pavey's Grocery, 430 Blackstone St., has submitted an application to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control seeking C-1 and C-2 carryout permits. Council members did not voice any objections to the two liquor permit applications.

Council learned that the city has received a shipment of nearly 16 tons of steel to be used in the Washington C.H. Police Department's jail improvement project. The city's legislaror's approved a payment of $11,591.10 for the steel shipment which has been received from the Southern Steel Co., San Antonio, Tex. The total contract for the steel is $17,678 and the total project has been appropriated.

Urge help for senior citizens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A U.S. Department of Labor official has urged delegates to the Governor's conference on Aging to organize and use political muscle to advance the situation of senior citizens.

Charles Odell, former director of the older and retired workers program of the United Auto Workers, told conferees Wednesday that "an organized coalition can be heard widely at the ballot box."

Conference delegates agreed informally to form a coalition to lobby in the Ohio General Assembly.

The 400 delegates approved a host of formal resolutions including:

—A request for $10 million in interest-free loans for grants to older people for home rehabilitation.

—Support for a bill setting aside $4.2 million for free transportation for the elderly and urging allocation of funds for rural transportation for older people.

—Support for bills allowing use of county funds for senior citizens' programs, establishing a state housing finance agency and defining landlord tenant rights.

—A request to the federal government to lift its freeze on federal housing funds.

Earlier Wednesday, Gov. John J. Gilligan told about 3,000 people attending the conference that the failure to utilize the talents, experience, and creativity of senior citizens "has resulted in the loss of opportunity no amount of money will ever restore."

Armed robbery charges dropped

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Armed robbery charges were dismissed Wednesday against Andrew Wallace, 21, after the fourth jury in a year in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court was unable to reach a decision.

Wallace had been accused of a delicatessen and drug store holdup in 1973.

No invasion of brown spiders

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Police Sgt. Paul Gilley breathed a sigh of relief Wednesday after biologists at Miami University reported the town was not facing an invasion of poisonous brown recluse spiders.

The spiders were reported by Michael Rye, who discovered a nest in his grandfather's home. Biologists said the spiders were harmless brown spiders.

Gilley said plans were in the works to evacuate and spray the town.

"Waynesville can sleep tonight," he smiled.

THUNDER STRUCK — Greg Lehrer looks at baseball cap he was wearing when he was struck by lightening in Dallas, Texas. The lightening disintegrated a chain he was wearing, melted the zipper in his pants, fused his legs together and burned his heel. Two policemen coaching another baseball team gave Greg mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage and took him to a hospital. Doctors pried his legs apart and say he is recovering satisfactorily.

Cincinnati fights law nullification

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati City Council Wednesday asked the Ohio House to kill a measure now before it that would nullify the city's new tenant-landlord law.

The local ordinance spells out the obligations for each in the rental of property.

An amendment to House Bill 796 would nullify the local law, according to Councilman Guy Guckenberger.

The longest hunger strike recorded was one of 94 days by nine inmates of Cork Prison, Ireland, from Aug 11 to Nov. 12, 1920.

Viet bonuses not taxable

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission said Wednesday the bonuses are not taxable by any level of government.

And the payments are not subject to seizure or lien, cannot be assigned and are neither negotiable nor transferrable, said John F. Carroll, commission public relations director.

Carroll was answering some of the many questions being received by the bonus headquarters here.

He said veterans who have lost their discharge form or who believe that the one they have is inaccurate should request a new form from the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis.

Carroll said that veterans who do not have the specific dates of their foreign service, including sea and Vietnam duty between Aug. 5, 1964, and July 1, 1973, may obtain such information by writing the finance center of the branch in which they served.

Lake Erie problems pondered

WASHINGTON (AP)—"You can't just pull the plug," an aide to Sen. Robert Taft Jr. said Wednesday in referring to the complexity of the Lake Erie flooding problem.

He said a delegation of Ohio city and county officials who met Wednesday with federal officials and Ohio congressmen "were concerned that problems of the lake don't seem to be getting the critical attention this year that they need.

"On the other hand," he added, "everyone realizes that there's no easy solution to the flooding problem."

The aide said each community presented recommendations and "some were very creative ideas." Local officials were asked to submit their proposals in writing to Ohio's congressional delegation.

The meeting was described as "a working session" by an aide to Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "No real decisions were reached," he said. "Everybody just aired their opinions and gripes."

Attending the three-hour session were three congressmen representing Ohio districts along Lake Erie, the state's two senators, and representatives from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the U.S.-Canadian International Joint Commission and officials from various communities and counties affected by season flooding of the lake.

Because of their diplomatic immunity, foreign diplomats in Britain have dodged paying car parking fines in excess of 250,000 pounds — around $1.3 million — according to Home office figures.

Four juveniles burglarize warehouse on Grace Street

Four Washington C.H. juveniles burglarized a Grace Street warehouse and stole some toys, according to city police.

Four Washington C.H. boys, ages 8,7,7,and 6, were questioned by two of the boys' parents about where they got the baseballs, footballs, kites and kite string they were playing with in the vicinity of Western Avenue Saturday.

It was admitted they had removed a wire securing a gate in a fence on the north side of a storage building owned by Dick Waters, located at 777 Grace St.

They then broke a window on the north side of the building with a rock and entered.

City police reported the incident today and stated the parents will compensate for the damage, estimated at $5.

A car owned by Thomas Penrod, 837½ Washington Ave., was entered sometime between 10:30 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. Wednesday, while parked at 526 Pearl St., police reported.

Four speakers valued at $30, were removed. Police are investigating the theft.

Sparling to attempt new bid for election

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Republican James Sparling Jr., who lost a special election in Michigan's 8th Congressional District last month, says he will try again for the seat in November. Sparling was defeated by Democrat Bob Traxler for a seat Republicans had held since 1932.

Sparling conceded Wednesday for the first time that he felt a visit to the district by President Nixon shortly before the election may have hurt his chances.

Memorial Day services set

In keeping with a stand taken last year, area veterans will hold Memorial Day activities Thursday, May 30, not on Monday which is now the legal holiday.

When Congress elected in 1973 to begin celebrating Memorial Day on the last Monday in May, veterans here refused to honor the change and continue to recognize May 30.

Since school will be in session during the afternoon, the parade is slated to begin at 7 p.m., following essentially the same route as in previous years.

F. Paul Souther, a past district American Legion commander, will be serving as parade marshal, and R. Dean Scholl, Ohio American Legion second vice commander, will deliver the Memorial Day address at Washington Cemetery.

The youth groups are to begin forming at 6:30 p.m. on Main Street between Market and Temple streets, and the bands and veterans groups will form at the same time on Main Street between Court and Market streets.

The parade will start at the intersection of Main and Court streets and travel east over Court Street and Washington Avenue to Washington Cemetery.

SPECIAL SERVICES will be held in Highlawn Memory Gardens at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 26, under the sponsorship of Burnett-Ducey Post 4964 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Lt. Col. J. W. Mankin, a United States Air Force chaplain and 20-year veteran, will be the guest speaker. The invocation and benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Cloyce D. Copley, and music will be provided by the Miami Trace band.

NEW HOLLAND will also observe Memorial Day on May 30. A parade will lead from the American Legion Post to New Holland Cemetery where the Rev. Allen Puffenberger will give the address. The invocation will be called by the Rev. Victor Slutz, and the Adelphia Band will perform.

BLOOMINGBURG has accepted the new holiday and will celebrate at 2 p.m. Monday. Taking part in ceremonies there will be the firing squad of Company C of the Ohio Ntional Guard in Washington C. H., the Grand Army of the Republic, and the Miami Trace band.

Robert W. Moyer, of Wilmington, will deliver the Memorial Day speech and Kelly Hicks will read the Gettysburg Address. A wreath will be presented to the cemetery by Rex Bloomer, and a flag will be presented by the ladies auxiliary.

The invocation and benediction will be given by the Rev. Forest Porter.

JEFFERSONVILLE will also hold its observance on Monday. A parade will form at Jeffersonville School at 10 a.m. The group will stop at the old Jeffersonville Cemetery before proceeding to Fairview Cemetery.

The Rev. Conrad Bower will conduct services, and the Rev. Eugene Griffith will deliver the address.

The Miami Trace High School band will participate in the program which is being coordinated by the William Horney chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Woman cited after crash

A Fayette County woman failed to negotiate a right curve on Ohio 41 and crashed into a fence, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. City police are investigating a hit-skip incident in Hidy's parking lot.

Lenora D. Morris, 17, Rt. 4, traveled off the right side of Ohio 41, when she failed to negotiate a right curve at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

A pick-up truck struck a car owned by Tina Pauley, 60, Sabina, while the Pauley car was parked in the Hidy Foods parking lot, Columbus Avenue, at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, city police reported.

Moderate damage was incurred by Ms. Pauley's car and the incident is under investigation.

Bicycle rodeo set Saturday

The Fayette County Extension Service office and the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club are sponsoring a bicycle rodeo to test the precision and safety of young riders.

The rodeo will be held in the parking lot facing Temple Street of the Alber's Store, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Several events will be featured in the rodeo, for an example, the slow ride, a test of endurance and skill. This event cannot be done any faster than a certain time and must be done without faltering. There will also be an obstacle course and combined with safety maneuvers such as hand signals and safety practices.

There will be prizes for the winner in each of five age groups. The groups are ninth grade through 12th grades, seventh and eighth grades, fifth and sixth grades, third and fourth grades, and first and second grades.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Fayette County Extension Office 335-1150.

In case of rain the rodeo will be cancelled.

Sign language lets deaf enjoy rock gospel concert

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The music was soft and the room was otherwise silent — until a door slammed. But no one heard the banging door at the "Rock Concert for the Deaf."

The concert, presented in sign language and song before more than 400 persons, must of them deaf, at St. John's Roman Catholic Church here, was devised by the Rev. Dan Pokorny of Washington, D.C.

Pokorny, a 36-year-old chaplain to Lutheran students at Gallaudet College in Washington, said the opportunity to develop rock gospel came in 1969 when the college asked him to form a program of signal, or sign language, poetry.

"I said 'no' to this," he added, "but yes to music — on the deaf man's terms.

"Usually, schools for the deaf have rhythm bands and teachers place deaf children's hands on the piano, but it's always on the hearing man's terms," he argued. "Rock gospel approaches music differently; this is music on the deaf man's terms."

THE ROCK GOSPEL show consists of a rock band, The Sons of Thunder, who back Pokorny and the three others who sign the words while the lead singer performs for the sake of the hearing audience.

Lights, a screen and audience participation highlight the show.

The concert, sponsored by Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant churches and agencies concerned with the deaf, features religious standards such as "Amazing Grace," as well as rock tunes such as "I Can See Clearly Now" and "I Believe in Music," and several original compositions.

To the hearing person, perhaps the most interesting segment of the show was the four-part round of "Rock My Soul" in sigh, with three groups signing different verses as the fourth kept up the beat. Each group followed one of the signers on stage as the band played the tune, giving the nonhearing audience the proper vibrations.

TO ACHIEVE the desired emphasis, Pokorny choreographs each sign movement to the particular tune.

"A deaf person can feel vibrations of rock music just as a hearing person can, and these vibrations intermingled with rhythm in signing give the deaf person the idea of music," explained the Rev. Msgr. John P. Hourihan, pastor of St. John's and Archdiocesan apostolate of the deaf.

To illustrate this, the Msgr. Hourihan gave an example of conversation:

"When one signs in conversation, as in vocal conversation, there is no common rhythm, but in song there is a rhythm that all the vocalists adhere to. The rock vibrations furnish the rhythm the deaf person needs to signal a song."

POKORNY said he first became interested in the deaf in 1959 when the Rev. C. Roland Gerholdt, minister of Newark's St. Michael's Lutheran Church for the Deaf, visited Concordia College in Bronxville, N.Y., where he was a student.

"Rev. Gerholdt brought two deaf people with him and they told us how much they appreciated people who took the time to learn sign," he said. "That did it."

In the late 1950s, the Brooklyn-born Pokorny was in seminary training at St. Michael's under the Rev. Gerholdt direction. Gerholdt commented that he "knew that someday Dan would put to use his gift of drama — in some way he would preach the message to the deaf — but I just didn't know how."

IT WAS THEN that he adopted a technique of interpreting movie dialogue into sign language, using a black light and white fluorescent gloves.

After his ordination in 1961, Pokorny began work with the deaf in Indianapolis, where he gained national prominence by using his black light technique to interpret the movie "King of Kings."

Pokorny said the next step for the ensemble was to find some kind of funding on a permanent basis to enlarge the Rock Gospel activities.

Yachts 'sail' waterless Sahara Desert

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yacht racing usually conjures up pictures of white water and flying spray. But camera crews recorded brown sand and flying stones when they filmed a 1,-500-mile "sail"across the Sahara Desert last summer by land yachts from eight countries.

Speeding over the western Sahara with triangular sails taut in the breeze, the one-man craft often race on only two of their three tires as steeply canting hulls lifted one wheel high in the air.

The helmeted yachtsmen maintain a precarious balance by deft handling of two steering wheels: one to maneuver the vehicle's front wheel, the other to trim its brightly colored mainsail.

For their month-long journey, land yahts from Begium, Canada, France, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Poland, the United States and West Germany set out from Tindouf in southern Algeria, once a stop for caravans traveling the old trade route to Timbuktu.

Though the light craft can go up to 60 miles an hour, alternate stretches of undulating sand hills and patches of hazardous rock and loose stones frequently cut their speed in half.

Sohio awarded $39,000 damages

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Butler County Common Pleas Court jury Wednesday awarded Sohio a $39,000 judgement against a Middletown man who accidentally blew up one of their stations.

Police said William Lewis discarded a match while manager Larry Taylor was draining gasoline from Lewis' sports car. The fumes caught fire and destroyed the station and the car Feb. 24, 1973.

The same jury dismissed a cross petition by Lewis against Taylor also charging negligence.

The heaviest normal newborn child recorded in modern times was a boy weighing 24 pounds 4 ounces, born on June 3, 1961, to Mrs. Saadet Cor of Ceyhan, southern Turkey.

Strauss says Ford 'orchestrated'

"It would be amusing, really, to watch Vice President Ford being orchestrated," Strauss said in a speech to a small gathering of Ohio Democrats here.

Strauss said Ford is being orchestrated "on the one hand by those who advise him, and on the other, by the White House; each going in different directions, each getting him to spout the line of the day and forgetting the line of yesterday."

For example, Strauss said, four weeks ago Ford labeled the U.S. House of Representatives a "do-nothing Congress."

"This week he's running about talking about a legislative dictatorship," said Strauss.

"In 1972 he was campaigning for a Congress that would give its total support to the President while today he worries about one that might be veto-proof," said Strauss.

"And just 24 hours ago, in a quiet meeting with former members of Congress, he had the nerve to say to them that he has more respect for the Congress today than he did when he served in it. What line will we hear from the Vice President tomorrow?" asked Strauss.

Ford relinquished his Republican congressional seat in Michigan when he was picked as vice president.

Strauss also reiterated to the seminar of Ohio Democrats who are seeking congressional seats that there should be no call for the President to resign over Watergate.

"Let's not call for the resignation of Richard; let's press for a fair and honorable and lawful constitutional response to this whole mess and let the system respond," declared Strauss.

"For those in our country who would call for Richard Nixon's resignation, let's remember what Richard Nixon was, and did when he perceived himself to be a hero," said Strauss. "What horrors await us if he is allowed to portray himself as a martyr!"

Strauss urged the candidates to talk about issues that he said are on the minds of Americans — inflation, education, unemployment, pension reform and national health insurance.

"They are not going to elect us if we run around the country yelling 'Watergate, Watergate, Watergate,'" said Strauss.

Brooke sees Nixon losing effectiveness

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Edward Brooke said there is increasing evidence that Soviet leaders may doubt President Nixon's ability to make agreements that will be supported by the U.S. Congress and the American people.

The Massachusetts Republican said in a lecture at the University of Akron Wednesday night that the President's scheduled trip to Moscow in June may be viewed as a "cynical attempt to cloud the impeachment issue."

Brooke said Soviet leaders may be unwilling to deal with Nixon on substantive issues during his Moscow visit.

"If this were the case, a summit meeting would be nothing more than a hollow shell, devoid of substantive purpose," Brooke said.

Brooke said it would be "certainly demeaning to the office of the presidency, particularly if President Nixon were perceived by others to be going to Moscow in quest of the Kremlin's help to bolster his image at home."

Labor showdown scheduled today

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Leaders of an opposition faction within the Ohio AFL-CIO exuded confidence Wednesday as their showdown with President Frank W. King approached.

Balloting for the top offices was scheduled for today. Results of the voting were to be announced Friday.

Delegates have nominated 69 candidates for 34 vice president posts, which, with the offices of president and secretary-treasurer, make up the executive board.

The entire board is up for reelection except for two vice presidents who have declined to run.

Milan Marsh, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio State Council of Carpenters, and Warren J. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the state AFL-CIO, lead the dissident ticket.

Nomination of Marsh, who opposes King for the presidency, and Smith, who is seeking re-election, triggered a colorful demonstration Wednesday complete with marching band, drum majorettes and twirling campaign signs.

More than a third of the delegates appeared to join the parade as it wound through the convention hall, spectators said.

"We will return to business as soon as the Ringling Brothers leave the floor," was the response of acting Chairman Cnarles R. Pinzone, a state AFL-CIO vice president.

Disagreement between King and the Marsh-Smith wing over labor's relations with the Democratic party and especially Gov. John J. Gilligan have split the body's executive board.

But Smith, who was believed behind a 50-page attack on King's leadership over the last 10 years circulating among the delegates, refused to be dragged into an open debate with the president.

Charles R. Pancake, an Electrical Workers leader and a King loyalist, tried to start a floor discussion of King's stewardship but was shouted down. It took Marsh's personal intervention to quiet his followers.

Smith and Marsh called a news conference Tuesday to announce they had commitments of enough votes after caucuses of state delegations to insure their ticket's victory.

Group backs proposals on education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio College Association Wednesday endorsed 31 recommendations of the Citizens' Task Force on Higher Education to the General Assembly and Ohio Board of Regents.

The presidents of most of the 72 private and public colleges and universities, community and technical colleges in the association attended the meeting.

The presidents did object to a task force proposal to divide the state into uniform planning regions for post-secondary education.

They said the plan would not allow flexibility to adapt to individual problems or areas of study.

The group also urged that a task force recommendation for fee reciprocity with Pennsylvania, Michigan and Kentucky be amended to include all surrounding states.

The association also suggested limiting a freeze on underclass student fees at public institutions to the 1975-77 biennium saying if the current inflation rate continues, fee increases are inevitable.

MT Band Boosters plan music clinic

The Miami Trace Band Boosters Club met Monday night for its final monthly meeting and served a fund-raising dinner to the Miami Trace Teachers Association Tuesday night.

Paul Febo, band director, announced at the monthly meeting that final arrangements are being made for band members to attend a music clinic at Camp Clifton Aug. 5-9.

The Fayette County Board of Education will provide transportation to the camp and the cost to each band member will be slightly $30. Possible fund-raising projects for the group were discussed, but no action was immediately taken.

Officers of the club for the 1974-75 school year were introduced. They were Mrs. Frank White, who was re-elected to another term as president, Mrs. Merle Jenkins, vice president; Mrs. Melvin Krieger, secretary; Mrs. Harold Thompson, treasurer; and Mrs. Carl Krieger, news reporter.

The dinner held at Miami Trace High School Tuesday generated funds for the club treasury. Proceeds will be used for scholarships to the August camp and to help pay for the new band uniforms.

New York City has water frontage of 750 miles, 300-foot-deep water berths and three major airports.

Her future plans are not definite, but she's thinking about attending Ohio State University and going into medicine or law. Ima's looking forward to graduation, although she will miss her activities and her friends. Her final comment was: "I'm sad to think that I have less than a week to be considered a high school student. However, I have several treasured memories that I will always carry with me. The biggest of them all is the honor I had of cheering for the NO. 1 football and basketball team.

"I wish the underclassmen the best of luck and hope that they will be able to see and be a part of the spirit that I have seen this year. I also hope their senior year will be as great as mine has been."

Road construction cuts aired

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The energy crisis is not the only reason for major cutbacks in state highway construction, but "it was the straw that broke the camel's back," said J. Phillip Richley, director of Ohio Department of Transportation.

Richley said a number of factors, including inflation, contributed to the situation which has caused a 24 per cent drop in state highway construction projects over the past four years.

But the Ohio Contractors Association (OCA) isn't satisfied with Richley's explanation for the cutbacks.

"The state's highway construction program has been reduced drastically for the last two years and the unemployment rate is very high in the industry," the OCA said in a statement Wednesday.

Karl L. Rothermund, Jr., OCA executive vice president, accused the state officials of using the energy crisis as a "scapegoat."

"The delay of construction projects is caused by the decision at the state level to permit inadequate road financing to occur...and was clearly avoidable," Rothermund said.

Richley admits the department had foreknowledge of some financial difficulty, but was unable to increase revenues to face it.

"Gov. John J. Gilligan has an avowed policy against tax increases," Richley said, "so we had to live within our budget."

The transportation chief said the states embarks on only the most heavily federally funded projects, but Ohio has already used up its federal money for this fiscal year.

Rettermund maintained however, that the state is out of money to improve roads because its cost of maintenance and payroll have skyrocketed and over $18 million annually is taken from gasoline tax receipts to subsidize the Department of Highway Safety.

Meanwhile, the OCA announced wage agreements with four unions covering some 30,000 workers in heavy, municipal and utility construction.

Agreements were reached under terms of wage opener clauses with the Ohio Laborers' District Council, Cement Masons and Bricklayers International Union, Ohio Conference of Teamsters and Local 18, Operating Engineers Union.

Charles W. Rinehart, OCA Industrial relations director, said the wage increases range from 5 to 8 per cent, effective May 1974, and amount to hourly wage-packages of 30 to 70 cents per hour for Operating Engineers, and 60 cents per hour for the Teamsters, Cement Masons and Laborers.

The statewide agreement also covers workers in Boone, Campbell, Pendleton and Kenton counties in northern Kentucky, he said.

Cat rescue proves flop

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The 19-year-old son of a Cincinnati fire captain tried to follow in his father's footsteps but had to be rescued from a tree by firemen in a rainstorm.

Stephen Marshall, son of Capt. Jack Marshall, heard a local radio station plea from Rocco DeCioccio that his 2-year-old cat, "Min," was stranded high in a tree.

Young Marshall, a part-time roofer, drove to the location and had climbed up 40 feet "when I froze." The cat was 15 feet higher and out on a limb.

The first arriving firemen didn't have a long enough ladder and had to call for help. Marshall was brought down by the second company.

The cat?

Firemen left her in the tree.

"We rescue people who try to rescue cats," said Capt. Donald Budde, "but we don't rescue cats. It's against regulations."

Grant priorities being studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Ira Whitman, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, has asked U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, to meet with him and U.S. EPA officials to discuss methods of drawing up a grant priority list.

Whitman took issue Wednesday with Taft's charges that a federally-required priority list for wastewater construction grants was drawn up politically.

He said the Ohio EPA has "worked overtime to compile a fair impartial list of projects and to insure public participation."

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — A two-car collision on Ohio 104 near Rushtown Wednesday killed two Scioto County men, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

Ohio Perspective

State eyes make-work plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's General Assembly is being asked to take up the slack in a sagging federal program by seeking on its own to put welfare recipients into productive jobs.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, and several other legislators have introduced a bill that would place welfare clients on the public payroll.

It would work something like the federal Work Incentive Program, which has been sharply curtailed as a result of cutbacks in federal funds.

Kurfess explained that the state would partially finance jobs created specifically for welfare clients for a period of five years. The jobs could be created within any agency of state government.

During the first three years, the employing agency would be reimbursed by the Bureau of Employment Services for 75 per cent of the salary paid, or $400 a month, whichever was the lesser.

In the fourth year, the agency would get 50 per cent, or $300, and in the fifth year, 25 per cent, or $200, whichever is the lesser, Kurfess said.

The minority leader said the idea of the program was to provide opportunities to welfare families who otherwise might remain on relief rolls indefinitely.

Kurfess conceded that the vast majority of welfare funds go for Aid to Dependent Children, but said that finding a job for the parent or parents of such children "will take the children off the welfare roles."

Kurfess estimated $3,600 as the cost of each job created. He envisioned as many as 4,000 jobs in the first year of the program's operations, and said such an effort would cost the state $14.4 million.

The former GOP House speaker said he would seek the support of majority House Democrats on the basis of an existing surplus of 1973-1975 revenues.

"The money is available," he said.

Under his bill, public employment career positions would be made available to individuals who have been on Aid to Dependent Children or General Relief for at least six months. They must have been classified as employable by their county welfare department and could not be diverted from any welfare training program in which they already were enrolled.

Kurfess said the new positions would be included in the civil service system where appropriate and the employe would not be subject to competitive examination during the first six months of employment.

Housing market has new setback

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the future of housing may already seem as forlorn as an abandoned cellar excavation, still another dismal report has been issued by an important mortgage banker.

The nearly impossible situation faced by the industry is exemplified by a massive outflow of funds from mortgage lenders, by rising mortgage rates, and by materials costs that are rising at an unpredictably swift rate.

But a report by Advance Mortgage Corp. of Detroit suggests that still another factor adds to the pummeling being administered to housing. In spite of pay increases, that is, customers are literally unable to buy.

Advance Mortgage summarized the predicament this way: "Home-buying costs have been rising some 3½ times as fast as their customers' income." This indicates that, even if they can borrow, many customers won't do so.

"In the past 12 months," the report continues, "average new home prices have increased at least 18 per cent, and mortgage interest rates on a 90 per cent mortgage are now in the range of 9½ per cent where usury laws permit, compared to 8¼ per cent a year ago.

"That adds up to a 28 per cent increase in the monthly payments on a typical home mortgage — compared to an 8 per cent increase in average personal income."

And the sales prices might go higher still. Irving Rose, president of Advange Mortgage, a subsidiary of the First National City Corp., notes that while raw land costs have leveled off, total development costs have risen.

Cost increases are said to be especially severe in petroleum based components such as asphalt paving and shingles and plastic pipe, and metal items such as sewer pipes and reinforcing bars.

"Builders are complaining they don't know what their houses will cost," Rose relates. "In Florida, some single-family home builders are completing entire tracts in advance of any attempt to sell so they will know their complete costs before setting a price. Others are pre-selling but with escalation clauses."

Advance Mortgage concludes: "The housing recovery projected for this year has died in its cradle."

Several factors involved in rising hospital costs

"Hospital costs are a reality that we all must live with. For the past several years, hospitals have been criticized for the high cost of hospitalization and there are a multitude of factors which has caused this high inflation," according to Robert L. Kunz, Fayette Memorial Hospital administrator.

When Phase I came into being, the hospital seemed to be the main target. This became more evident when Phases II, III and IV were announced. Under Phase IV, the health care field and oil companies were to remain under the Federal Control Program. Congress let the Economic Stabilization Act expire on April 30, 1974, this meant no more controls, Kunz said.

What effect this is going to have on hospital costs will remain to be seen. Hospitals are doing everything within their power to keep the cost down to the patient and Fayette Memorial Hospital is no exception.

"In the past years, we have had one of the lowest room rates in Central Ohio. This is, both, good and bad. Good from the standpoint of the patient, but bad in revenue input to the hospital," Kunz noted.

Another unique feature of Fayette Memorial Hospital is that during February 1974, the patient's average length of stay was 6.09 days while the national average during this same period was 7.4 days, almost a day and one-half less patient stay at Fayette County Memorial Hospital. "Why? Because of excellent medical care, quality physicians and hospital employes who care," Kunz pointed out.

"What all of this boils down to is that no matter how hard we try to provide quality medical care at the best price, inflation and the government are going to effect the cost," Kunz said. To emphasize this point even more, since Jan. 1974, to the present time, the hospital has experienced price increases, from their supplies, in eleven areas. These increases have ranged from 5 per cent to as high as 67 per cent. "We have had to pay more for the products needed, but were controlled as to the cost that we could pass on to the patient. Out of these 11 price increases, for example, our intravenous solutions increased 17 per cent," Kunz remarked. The net result of this is the elimination of needed working capital to operate the hospital.

Another area which will cause hospital costs to increase is the recently enacted minimum wage law. Although initially this will have little effect, but by 1975, it is going to cause hospital costs to rise even higher.

Fayette Memorial Hospital has a strong sound budget and cost containment program. This program has been in effect for the past four years and will remain in effect for many more years. "We are doing everything possible to keep costs down through sound fiscal management policies and procedures," Kunz said. "But, no matter how hard we try in the health care field, the costs are going to continue to increase," he noted.

"It is hoped that the public will understand the difficulties we are encountering in the areas of hospital costs and will continue to give us the understanding, help and consideration that they have always given us in the past," he said.

Fair skies bring relief to mid-U.S.

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers dampened the East today, while fair skies brought relief to much of the nation's waterlogged midsection.

Rain washed an area from the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic Coast and the coastal sections of New England. Thundershower activity also extended from the Ohio Valley to the Gulf Coast, dumping nearly 2 inches of rain at Knoxville, Tenn., and about 1 inch at Atlanta, Ga.

In the wake of floods that forced hundreds from their homes Wednesday in north-central Illinois, Gov. Daniel Walker asked President Nixon to declare the state a disaster area.

During the night, hail the size of ping pong balls pounded an area in north-central Oklahoma. A tornado was sighted in the same area, but there were no reports of damage or injuries.

Generally, skies were clear over the central portion of the nation, partly cloudy in the West and cloudy in the East.

Woman named new Ohio chief for consumers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Commerce Director Dennis Shaul announced Wednesday the appointment of Diane R. Liff, 29, as the new chief of the agency's Consumer Protection Division.

She succeeds Lynne Skilken, who was fired earlier this month in a dispute with Shaul, who contended she didn't spend enough time on the job.

Ms. Liff, who uses that title by preference, has been with the division's civil rights section since 1972. She received her law degree from the University of Chicago and her undergraduate degree from Wooster College.

The appointment is effective June 10.

Barge spill cleaned up

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Coast Guard reopened the Ohio River to shipping at Cincinnati early today after the river had been closed since early Wednesday evening when a barge rammed into pilings, spilling a large quantity of kerosene.

A second barge in the same tow line and containing 160,000 gallons sulpheric acid sank, but apparently little, if any, of the acid leaked into the water according to port captain Commander Rudy Somer.

The river was reopened about 2:20 a.m., after danger from the kerosene had ended, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Somer was to survey the spill from the air today.

Traffic across the L&N Bridge, connecting Cincinnati with Newport and Covington in Kentucky was stopped for a short time after the accident.

New camping area readied at Deer Creek

A new camping area with 232 fully-equipped sites will be formally opened at Deer Creek State Park Friday in preparation for the Memorial Day weekend.

William B. Nye, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, will join with Lt. Col. Orland K. Hill, deputy district engineer of the Huntington, W. Va., district of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and other government officials to open the new Class A sites in a ceremony at 10 a.m. at the Pickaway County park.

Renney Water Systems, of Columbus, constructed the camping facility for the Corps of Engineers at a cost of $1,123,922. The campground includes four washrooms with showers and laundry facilities, six restrooms, a trailer waste station and a parking lot.

The sites, all with electricity available, will rent on a first-come, first served basis for $2.50 a night.

The Corps of Engineers has turned over the new campground to the Department of Natural Resources as a part of the 7,000-acre state park much like facilities at Delaware, Dillon and Mosquito state parks.

Ohio income tax suit rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Franklin County Court of Appeals has refused to declare the state's income tax law unconstitutional in a suit filed by two Medina couples.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tiefel and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carlisle, contended the law discriminates against married taxpayers by denying them the option to file separate returns if they filed a joint federal tax return.

Judge Horace Troop said Tuesday the requirement was irritating, but said declaring the law unconstitutional would be much more disastrous.

The longest measure of time is the kalpa in Hindu chronology. It is equivalent to 4,320 million years.

Testimony to continue in Indianapolis 500 lawsuit

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The winner of the 58th annual Indianapolis 500-mile auto race could be decided, in part, through court action.

Testimony was to resume today in Marion County Superior Court on a lawsuit that sought to reopen qualifications for the Sunday, May 26, race to five entrants who claim they were deprived of a chance to make the field.

Attorneys for the five plaintiffs, Roy Woods Racing, Carl Gehlhause, K & L Racing, Eldon Rasmussen Racing Products and Webster Racing, called three of a planned 47 witnesses Wednesday after defense attempts to kill the suit failed.

One witness, Indianapolis Motor Speedway Vice President Joe Cloutier, said that one of the plaintiffs, if allowed to qualify now for the 33-car field, might "win the race, and that would bring the other cars in the field down on us."

He added, "At stake here is not only the prize money, but the prestige and commercial endorsements that can run into millions for the winner. We'd have lawsuits from every other driver now in the field, if that happened."

Chief Steward Tom Binford testified that the cars left waiting in line when time trials ended Saturday at 6 p.m. were no longer guaranteed at least one chance for the field.

"One car that went through the line before them was on its second attempt, although the first time out with a new driver," he said. "That broke the line of first-time qualifiers."

Those suing contend that the car in question, No. 94, driven by rookie Johnny Parsons, was improperly placed in line and even moved ahead of others.

"What we wanted to bring out," said plaintiffs' attorney Don A. Tabbert, "was that when Binford let the car in the lineup, he was in effect disqualifying unjustly the other cars in line."

Binford also testified that the track was closed by rain for all but about five of the 14 hours allotted for qualification runs this year.

Tabbert contended there was sufficient time for qualification attempts by only "about 38 or 39" of the 68 entrants.

Attorneys for the defendants, the Speedway and the U.S. Auto Club, tried for a "temporary mandatory injunction" to stop the race until reopening of qualifications. Judge Frank A. Symmes Jr. overruled the requests and a motion for a change of venue, which would have in effect killed the case also.

Regardless of the outcome, carburetion tests were scheduled today for the 33 cars in the field and two alternates.

Also planned was a five-mile bicycle race around the track teaming the drivers and guests.

Hillsboro nears crown with 6-1 win over Trace

BY LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Hillsboro traded the long ball for the bunt, as the Indians erupted for four runs in the top half of the fifth inning to clip Miami-Trace 6-1 on the Panthers' field, Wednesday evening.

Three consecutive bunt singles by Kevin Bailey, Steve Coy and Dennis Wharton loaded the bases to lead off the fifth frame. Bailey crossed the plate on Brent Zink's sacrifice fly and Coy tallied when Larry Gibbs was safe on a fielder's choice. Bob Seeling's single brought Wharton in for the third run of the inning. Seeling stole second, but Gibbs was picked off at third base. Dave Larimer slashed a single to right to bring in the final run of the stanza.

Sophomore pitcher Jack James was brought up from the reserve team to start for the Panthers. James was lifted after the fifth inning, as he gave up five runs, four of which were earned, and nine hits. He struck out four and did not give up a walk.

Junior Tom Riley replaced James in the top of the sixth. The Indians reached Riley for one earned run and two hits, as he walked five and struck out two.

Larry Gibbs hurled the entire seven innings for the winners. The one run he gave up was earned and he limited the Panthers to six hits. Gibbs struck out seven and walked two.

Hillsboro took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the top of the third frame. Coy reached first on a single to left and advanced to third on two errors. Brent Zink's sacrifice fly scored Coy.

Riley's wildness in the sixth accounted for Hillsboro's final run. Bailey took first on a walk and went to second on a fielder's choice. Wharton's single up the middle scored Bailey.

Jay Mossbarger's single led to the Panthers' only run in the fifth stanza. After stealing second, Mossbarger scored on Kevin Dunn's single into left field.

Since Miami Trace's seniors are no longer in school, they did not play in Wednesday's game. The Panthers conclude their season Friday night at Unioto.

Miami Trace is now 6-7 in the South Central Ohio League. The Panthers have a 8-14 record for the season.

Hillsboro is now one game from clinching at least a tie for the SCOL championship. The indians are 10-3 in the SCOL and 15-5 for the year.

Prep track opens state championships

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An abundance of defending champions has qualified for the Ohio high school track, golf and tennis meets Friday and Saturday at Ohio State.

Track is the pacesetter, especially in Class AAA. Cleveland Glenville, the 1973 team titlist, returns as do nine individual titleholders and two relay champions among the large schools.

Glenville, with its defending 880-yard and mile relay units the fastest in the state this spring, rates an excellent chance of winning its sixth track crown in the last nine years in Ohio Stadium.

Brookville, the 1973 Class AA track ruler, qualified only one man this time. Lorain Clearview, the Class A champion last year, has an outside chance again, led by ace high jumper Larry Fortner.

Bob Hennings of Cleveland Collinwood will bid for a sweep of the Class AAA 100 and 220 titles for the second straight season.

A classic duel is shaping up in the pole vault. West won last year with 14-8 while Upper Arlington's Tom Rice, the 1972 champion, also returns. Rice won his title for Columbus Westland, but was hurt last year.

The track meet in Ohio Stadium has a trio of all-sports stars, Stan Johnson of Sandusky, Burris and Fortner.

Johnson, The Associated Press Ohio Class AAA Lineman of the Year in football last fall, won two district crowns last week with 58-4 in the shot put and 171-2½ in the discus.

Burris is a 6-foot-6 all-stater in basketball while Fortner starred as a quarterback in football and started for Clearview's Class A state basketball tournament champions.

Around the area

Playing in a steady drizzle, Billie Wilson Chevrolet women's softball team won its second game of the season, as BCI of London fell to a 34-6 defeat, Wednesday evening.

Leading the hitting attack for Billie Wilson Chevrolet was Pam Matson. Matson collected six hits in six appearances at the plate. Her hits included a home run and two triples, which helped account for six runs batted-in.

Debbie Morarity and Shirley Hurless also proved to be big factors in the winning effort. Morarity knocked in six runs, while Hurless accounted for five.

Championships seem to be running in the blood this racing season. Direct Home, which is owned by Ted Baker of Fair Chance Farm in Washington Court House, is the sire of two horses which have already won championships in this racing season.

One of the horses, Fair Honey, has already registered two harness racing victories. Fair Honey turned in the fastest mile in the Fayette County Horsemen's Matinee with a time of 2:11.3. On May 19, one week later, Fair Honey won the Wilmington Matinee with a five length victory in the time of 2:13.

Easy Direct, which is also from the same sire, registered a win in its season debut. Easy Direct won at Yonkers, New York in a time of 2:03.3.

Cincinnati falls nine games back

Dodgers sweep series from Reds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Steve Garvey has the enviable position of batting just behind hot Jim Wynn in the Los Angeles Dodgers' lineup.

It is enviable in that Wynn, a .316 hitter who is leading the majors in home runs with 14 and runs batted in with 41, has also walked 38 times.

"I think so, whether it's consciously or subconsciously," replied Garvey when asked if pitchers tend to bypass Wynn to get to him. "It's probably an ideal situation. I'm bound to get some RBIs."

Garvey has certainly made the most of the situation, driving in 36 runs himself, which ranks just behind Wynn's National League-leading mark. He drove home four more Wednesday night, pacing Los Angeles to a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati as the Dodgers completed a three-game series sweep of the Reds to balloon their Western Division lead to nine games.

The Dodgers nearly made a rout of the Reds Wednesday night, opening 5-0 lead after two innings. Garvey's two-run double in the first started Fred Norman to his fourth loss in seven decisions and then the Los Angeles first baseman finished him off with a bases-loaded single in the second. Norman was followed by five other pitchers as the Reds attempted to slow the Dodgers, who have now won 13 of their last 15 games.

The Reds got two runs off winning pitcher Al Downing, 22, when Tony Perez and Merv Rettenmund singled home runs in the third.

When Joe Morgan singled to score pinch hitter Phil Gagliano with Cincinnati's third run in the sixth, Mike Marshal was summoned from the bullpen for the 27th time this season and the sixth time in a row.

He got Johnny Bench to ground into a double play to end the inning and pitched out of another jam in the ninth to earn his fifth save and second in the series.

In the three games, Los Angeles completely manhandled Pete Rose, who fought a constant battle with the fans in the left field pavilion. Rose was 0-for-12 in the three games and only twice managed to hit the ball out of the infield.

Garvey, now hitting .320, which is tops among the regulars, has a two-fold reason for his improvement at the plate.

"The first thing is the opportunity to play regularly," he said, "and the other thing is playing first base. I feel at ease at first base. I know I'm going to play so I go out knowing I can hit. Now I'm adding power and I'm sure that's what they (the Dodgers) want."

Horton trades mud for beer

By The Associated Press

Willie Horton gave Milwaukee fans mud in their eye Wednesday night because they got beer in his.

The Detroit Tigers' slugging left fielder was the target of some naughty words the previous night when he hit two home runs. Wednesday night he was showered twice with beer after hitting a two-run homer that powered the Tigers to a 6-4 decision over the Brewers.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Cleveland Indians 1-0 in 12 innings, the Boston Red Sox extended their Fenway Park hex over the New York Yankees 6-3, the Oakland A's downed the Minnesota Twins 7-4, the California Angels beat the Kansas City Royals 6-1 and the Chicago White Sox split a doubleheader with the Texas Rangers, winning the opener 6-2 and dropping the nightcap 8-2.

Horton's seventh-inning homer, his 11th of the season, came off rookie Bill Travers and landed in the left field bleachers where, he said, the fans had cursed him a night earlier.

Angels 6, Royals 1

Frank Robinson and Joe Lahoud hit home runs and a controversy over a call on a rundown paved the way for three first-inning runs as California's Bill Singer's pitched a five-hitter.

Robinson's homer in the fifth was the 560th of his career and raised his total of extra base hits to 1,132, tying Tris Speaker for seventh place on the all-time list

Orioles 1, Indiana 0

Paul Blair's run-scoring single after Boog Powell's double and an intentional walk to Brooks Robinson drove in the game's only run while Ross Grimsley blanked Cleveland on eight hits.

A's 7, Twins 4

Reggie Jackson drove in five runs with his 13th homer, a double and a single and Joe Rudi socked a tie-breaking two-run triple in the ninth inning.

Red Sox 6, Yankees 3

Cecil Cooper and Bernie Carbo drove in fifth-inning runs as the Red Sox posted their eighth consecutive home victory over the Yankees. Boston has won 17 of 18 Fenway meetings with New York since August 1972.

White Sox 6-2, Rangers 2-8

Texas' Jeff Burroughs, who leads the majors with 45 runs batted in and who homered in the opener, belted a two-run triple in a three-run third inning and Ferguson Jenkins struck out 10 batters in the nightcap for his seventh victory.

Chicago's Jerry Hariston pinch hit an RBI single that ignited a tie-breaking four-run seventh inning in the opener to give Wilbur Wood his fifth straight triumph.

Security guards aid Atlanta in victory

By The Associated Press

There were a couple of extra men in blue in San Francisco and Atlanta Braves Manager Eddie Mathews said they gave his club a boost.

Besides the traditional men in blue keeping law and order on the four bases, there was a Burns security guard stationed at each end of the Atlanta dugout, insuring the safety of the new crowned king—home run record holder Henry Aaron.

"They did a good job today. It made a big difference, really helped us" Mathews said Wednesday after the Braves dropped the San Francisco Giants 6-2.

The two guards posted on orders of Giants owner Horace Stoneham, were around to protect Aaron after he was hit on the head by an orange hurled into the Braves dugout Tuesday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs downed the New York Mets 9-6; the Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 6-3; the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-1, the Houston Astros knocked off the San Diego Padres 5-1, and the game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Montreal Expos was rained out.

Aaron snapped a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring double that triggered a four-run Atlanta outburst in the sixth inning.

Astros 5, Padres 1

Milt May liked his first homer as an Astro so much, he did it again.

May, an offseason acquisition, slammed his first homer for Houston Tuesday night, then slugged a pinch hit grandslam homer Wednesday night with two outs in the bottom of the ninth, giving the Astros their second straight victory after 10 losses in a row.

Cubs 9, Mets 6

Jerry Morales, who drove in three earlier runs with a solo homer and a two-run single, crashed a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning, lifting Chicago over New York.

Phils 7, Cards 1

Del Unser backed Ron Scheuler's two-hit pitching with three RBIs on a home run and a single, powering Philadelphia past St. Louis.

Lou Brock opened the first with a double for St. Louis, then Scheuler retired the next 11 batters before Jose Cruz blasted a solo homer in the fifth.

Scheuler struck out four and walked two.

They've got thieves down on the farm

DES MOINES (AP) — Thieves have hit one out of every five Iowa farmers within the past three years, according to a poll conducted by Wallaces Farmer, one of the nation's oldest rural publications.

The magazine's pollsters asked the following question of 477 Iowa farm men and women: "Have you been a victim of theft with in the last three years?" Twenty percent replied yes. Heading the list of things stolen were fuel, livestock, machinery and tools.

Also, the poll showed that theives tended to pick their targets from the wealthier farms. Of farmers with less than $10,000 yearly income, 17 per cent reported farm thefts. Of those who earned $40,000 or more, 25 per cent reported thefts.

National forest records wolf calls

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you hear a wolf call in the Shoshone National Forest east of Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, you may just be tuning in on a tape recording intended to flush any real wolves out of the woods.

The Fish and Wildlife Service is using this method to seek information on the Northern Rocky Mountain Wolf, once thought to be extinct in the United States.

There have been recent reports, however, of wolf sightings in Montana, and sightings and howlings in Wyoming.

They'll Do It Every Time

Want ticks collected and mailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department wants cattle producers to search their animals for ticks and then mail the little creatures to a laboratory in Texas.

Not that USDA is starting a new entomological zoo. It's because one kind of tick threatens to spread cattle tick fever over a large portion of the United States unless the pests are cornered and eliminated.

The department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service issued this advice Wednesday: "Go catch a cattle tick. Save your cattle ... Look especially on the shoulder and flank areas. And send all ticks to the State-Federal Laboratory, 702, Colorado St., Austin, Tex. 78701."

Cattle fever ticks, which once cost producers $40 million a year in animal losses, were eradicated from the United States in 1943. Some small outbreaks occurred afterward, but the pests remained under control for the most part until August 1972.

At that time, a severe outbreak occurred in the area of Alice, Tex. A federal-state quarantine was imposed and control measures put into effect. No ticks have been found in the area since last February and officials are hopeful the quarantine can be lifted by next fall or sooner.

Although the southern areas are most susceptible to the spread of fever ticks, officials say the pests can be carried into other regions if precautions are not followed.

A permanent quarantine zone or barrier was established in 1941 along a 500-mile front of the Rio Grande to prevent spread of the pests from Mexico.

Opening lead — six of spades.

Let's assume you're East and partner leads the six of spades, dummy following low. When you win with the ace and South produces the five, there arises the question of what to do next.

Before making a decision, you should first try to figure out how the spades are divided. This is not exactly a Herculean task, since the Rule of Eleven tells you that South has another spade higher than the six and common sense tells you that it must be the jack, ten or nine. It cannot be the king, for your partner would surely have led the jack from the J-10-9-6-3, not the six.

It is clear that you must play a club at trick two — before declarer can establish the queen of spades as a trick — and the only real problem is which club to lead.

If you return the four, South makes the contract by playing low from his hand. Note that declarer is similarly successful if you return the queen, which South wins with the ace. Only the ten return stops declarer. He must then lose two spades and two clubs, whatever he does, and go down one.

The ten play is easy enough to justify if you make the reasonable assumption that partner must have the king or ace of clubs for the contract to be defeated.

You lead the ten to trap declarer's assumed jack, and at the same time neutralize dummy's nine, which is surrounded by your Q-8.

If it turns out that declarer has the A-K-x of clubs your ploy will not succeed, but in that case nothing else would succeed either.

Low Calorie Drinks are Safe

Even in warm weather my hands become black and blue when I dip them in water. In cold weather it's worse. I've had it for a long time, but now it really worries me.

Mr. J.H. Okla.

Dear Mr. H.:

The first thought that occurs to me is that you may have one of the vascular disorders associated with spasms of the small arteries that go to the hands and feet.

Raynaud's disease is one of the conditions associated with vasospasm of the arteries.

Blanching and blueness of the skin, and numbness and tingling, are characteristic of this condition.

Tobacco may not necessarily be the cause for this constriction of the blood vessels; but certainly adds considerably to the problem. Nicotine constricts the blood vessels, and must be eliminated completely.

Numerous drugs and some surgical procedures are used for advanced cases of conditions similar to and related to Raynaud's.

When I read all the substances that are contained in low calorie drinks I wonder if any of them are dangerous.

Mrs. E.L. Penn.

Dear Mrs. L.:

You can be certain that the substances they contain and the amounts of these substances have passed the rigid inspection of the Food and Drug Administration.

All the contents are clearly stated on the label. Unless one is sensitive to one of them, I am sure there is no reason for concern.

Can a plastic surgeon accurately predict the exact shape of a nose after the operation? Our daughter would like to have the surgery, but is fearful of the result.

Mrs. H.R.R. Tenn.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Within limits it is possible to anticipate the new anatomical shape of the nose.

It is, however, impossible to predict the exact shape even when a sketch is prepared in advance.

Special problems during the surgery, unusual configuration of the nasal bones, particularly wide bulbous cartilages at the tip of the nose, and the healing capacity of the individual affect the final result.

Modern surgical techniques have improved thousands of noses, and made thousands of people happier.

MILBOURNE BARNEY

Demo party heads named

The Fayette County Democratic Central Committee has chosen Milbourne Barney to serve another 2-year term as chairman of the local Democratic party. He has served as the chairman for the past five years.

After choosing central committee officers, Francis E. Langen, chairman; William G. Ward, vice chairman; and Mrs. Hilda Yeazel, secretary-treasurer; the committee selected nine of the members to the executive committee.

They were Milbourne Barney, Mrs. Doris C. Bitzer, Herbert Deer, Leo B. Edwards, Mrs. Mary D. Jones, Richard Kimmet, Francis E. Langen, Raymond Loudner and Mrs. Lora Lou White.

From within their own ranks, the nine selected Barney to chair the party for another term.

After appointing another eight persons to the executive committee, the group elected the other top officers. They were Edwards, first vice chairman; Mrs. White, second vice chairman; Mrs. Louise M. Rodgers, secretary; and Mrs. Bitzer, treasurer.

Chillicothe post wins acquittal

A jury of four men and four women deliberated less than two hours to reach a verdict after the two-day trial.

State liquor control agents and Ross County sheriff's deputies raided the post March 28 and confiscated gambling equipment and allegedly pornographic films.

Defense attorneys argued that, under the new Ohio Revised Code, gambling is not illegal if the proceeds go to charity.

Post Commander Amos Ramsey had said proceeds from the stag dinner were to go to heart and cancer funds.

The post still faces possible revocation or suspension of its liquor license by the state Department of Liquor Control.

Committee race winner unchanged

The winner of the Union Township contest for a seat on Republican Central Committee lost two votes in the recount, exactly his margin of victory. However, he was not displaced because his opponent also lost one.

A narrow two-vote margin of victory for Richard W. Keiser dwindled even further when the Fayette County Board of Elections checked township ballots for accuracy, but it remained sufficient to seat Keiser on the committee.

Four await prison

Five found guilty in county court

Three Washington C.H. area residents found guilty in Common Pleas Court of multiple felonies are presently incarcerated in the Fayette County jail awaiting transfer to state penal institutions.

A Jeffersonville man who pleaded guilty to a single charge of receiving stolen property is also scheduled for transfer to a state institution, and a Milledgeville man has been placed on two-year probation.

Two men and a woman arrested by city police in connection with the May 5 mugging of a Washington C.H. man and with charges relating to a forged check were found guilty and sentenced by Judge Evelyn W. Coffman Wednesday.

Neil Gerring, 19, of Bloomingburg, and Emery M. Tackett, 18, of U.S. 62-S, received identical sentences on charges of robbery and grand theft. Each recieved a six-month to five-year sentence at Mansfield Reformatory on the theft count and five-year probation for robbery.

CONNI BEANE, 23, of U.S. 62-S, the third member of the trio had been charged with robbery, forgery and receiving stolen goods. She was sentenced to terms of six months to five years on each of the forgery and stolen property counts. She was also given five-year probation for her part in the robbery.

According to the police report, Miss Beane had lured a Washington C.H. man from the Emerald Inn by suggesting that they go to her apartment for coffee shortly after midnight.

The woman then led him through dimly lit areas of the Washington Junior High School grounds where Tackett and Gerring knocked him down and took his wallet.

The same trio was involved in the cashing of a forged check. Tackett and Gerring had stolen blank checks from an automobile and turned them over to Miss Beane. She then forged and cashed them.

A Jeffersonville resident, Dale E. Wilson, 33, pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property for which he was sentenced to a term of six months to five years in the Ohio Penitentiary at Lucasville. He had been arrested by Sheriff's deputies for receiving a television which had been stolen from an area resident.

Robert H. Glispie, 23, Milledgeville, was placed on probation after he pleaded guilty to the theft of copper telegraph cable from near the B&O railroad tracks near Milledgeville.

Assistant Fayette County Prosecutor John H. Roszmann presented the evidence for the state of Ohio in all five cases.

Patty Hearst faces life imprisonment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst faces the possibility of life in prison as she is hunted as kidnap suspect rather than kidnap victim.

In a further dramatic turnabout since her kidnaping by the Symbionese Liberation Army Feb. 4, Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch lodged 19 felony charges against her Wednesday.

"She faces life imprisonment," Busch said. "In our opinion, Miss Hearst was acting on her own free will," he said in outlining the charges, which included four counts of robbery, five of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder and two of kidnaping. They were filed against Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris.

Busch called again on the three to surrender, but expressed doubt that they would and said there would be "no deal." He said he believed it was the first time a kidnap victim had become a kidnap suspect.

Miss Hearst, 20-year-old coed and heiress to a publishing fortune, and the Harrises, a white couple who police say comprise the remnants of the SLA, were charged with 18 counts each. A 19th charge, of aiding and abetting assault, was filed against Miss Hearst, and it raised the possibility that police believe she may not be with the Harrises.

The assault charge accuses Miss Hearst of being with two black men who tried unsuccessfully to slash a Los Angeles landlady last Sunday when she denied the three a room. Some of the other alleged "sightings" of Miss Hearst have placed her with persons other than the Harrises, and an 18-year-old youth says he saw her leave a Los Angeles house last Thursday with two black men. It was that house where six SLA members died in a fiery shootout last Friday.

Meanwhile, in San Francisco, a grand jury prepared to hear testimony today about an SLA bank robbery there and the kidnaping of Miss Hearst. Witnesses were said to include Tom Dean Matthews; Patty's mother, Catherine; and Steven Weed, the 27-year-old tutor she fell in love with in high school and was to marry this summer.

Matthews, 18, reportedly told FBI agents that Miss Hearst said she fired 30 rifle shots during a getaway from a sporting goods store last week. He said she and the Harrises kidnaped him, and said Miss Hearst told him she had willingly taken part in the bank robbery and had joined the SLA of her own free will.

The search for the three fugitives continued to center on Los Angeles, but FBI agents declined to be specific about leads.

Appeals mounted for them to surrender.
